Miss Minnie Geenen
Was One of Three Sisters in Firm

Miss Minnie Geenen, 91, of 410 E. North street, last survivor of the three sisters who founded the Geenen Dry Goods company, died at 8 p.m. Saturday after a long illness.

Funeral services will be at

Miss Minnie Geenen

10 a.m. Tuesday at St. Mary Catholic church. Burial will be in St. Joseph cemetery. The rosary will be recited at 7:30 today at the Bretschneider funeral home. Friends may call at the funeral home after noon today until services.

There are no immediate survivors.

Born in Kimberly, March 28, 1868, Miss Geenen moved to Appleton in 1893. In 1896, with her two late sisters, the Misses Dina and Anna Geenen, she founded a dry goods store that now occupies a 3-story building at 120 E. College avenue.

When the three sisters first visited a College avenue building owner to secure rented quarters for their business.

9 Policemen Murdered by African Mob

Durban, South Africa—AP—Nine policemen were herded into a native hut and beaten to death by an enraged African mob last night.

Four of the dead men were white, five black.

Police reinforcements rushed to the clash scene in suburban Cato Manor, managed to restore an uneasy peace. Armed patrols roamed the area on the ready for fresh outbreaks.

First word of trouble came when a radio operator at Cato Manor police station received a message saying: "They are stoning us. Come and help us."

A strong police detachment was rushed to the area as thousands of residents in the town barricaded themselves in their homes. At the scene they found nine police battered to death and one severely injured.

An official police statement said: "It appears that while one group of prisoners was being brought into Cato Manor police station by half the police raiding party, natives attacked the remainder."

An unofficial account said police had gone into the suburb to investigate the murder of an African.

The disorder marked the worst police casualty toll in a single clash in Durban's violent history.

Study Proposals To Soviet Union

Washington—AP—Two groups of allied diplomats began meetings here today to forge proposals for disarmament and Berlin negotiations with Russia later this year.

Discussions on the Berlin problem are expected to produce a new debate among the major western powers over their differences about how to counter Russian pressure for an end to allied protection of West Berlin.

French Rightist Diehards Still Hold Out in Algiers

French Army Paratroopers at the left keep a close watch on French rightists manning a street barricade in Algiers today in a protest against President de Gaulle's policy of self-determination for Algeria. Sunday night's clashes between rightists and army patrols left 19 dead and numerous casualties.

21 Killed, 153 Wounded In Sunday Night's Riots; Capital Quiet but Tense

BY ANDREW BOROWIEC

Algiers—(AP)—Armed diehard French rightists held out today behind makeshift barricades in the heart of Algiers.

Dawn found the capital quiet but tense in the wake of Sunday night's fighting and panic that left 21 persons dead, including 10 policemen, and 153 wounded.

The army seemed firmly in control, except for two pockets where about 1,000 insurgents were holed up.

The uprising against President Charles de Gaulle's self-determination policy pitted Frenchman against Frenchman in Algeria already bleeding from a 5-year revolt to nationalists.

A stiff military censorship was imposed on outgoing news dispatches but there was no objection to calling yesterday's rising a fight to keep Algeria French.

Trucks of paratroopers lined Avenue Pasteur along the western flank of the barricaded areas. The holdouts showed signs of their all night watch as they silently stared at passersby who hurried along in the bleak dawn.

Some men were seen leaving the barricades on the grounds of Algiers university and the Rue Michelet and sneaking away—but others seemed to have joined the holdouts.

Some Exits Blocked
Troops apparently blocked only two or three exits from the insurgent areas.

Despite a military order banning assembly of more than 10 persons, a large crowd gathered in the morning.

Hoffa Will Seek Nationwide Contract, Strengthen Union, He Tells Drivers

Press, Employers Will Fight Them, Leader Warns 500 State Drivers

BY JERRY VAN RYZIN

Post-Crescent News Service

Lake Delton—James R. Hoffa, president of the nation's largest union, in a stopover here Sunday, outlined strategy to make the Teamsters—now a record 1,677,619 strong—even more powerful.

Plans are to negotiate a single nationwide motor freight contract to go into effect Feb. 1, 1961, he said. Teamsters now have 25 states under a single agreement providing uniform minimum wages of $2.47 an hour and similar welfare and pension provisions for some 250,000 truck drivers.

The press and employers, Hoffa warned, will try to prevent the Teamsters from putting together a more effective organization to provide better working conditions and a better life for drivers' families. They will talk about a "trucking czar" and about "a stranglehold on the nation's economy," he said.

Party Leaders Not Committed

Refuse to Back Any Candidate in Democratic Race

Washington—AP—Democratic leaders controlling major blocs of party power remained uncommitted on a party nominee today after a weekend parade of presidential hopefuls.

With former President Harry S. Truman setting a "give 'em hell" pace, four major and several minor contenders for top place on the ticket tried out their personalities and oratorical persuasion on 2,500 party members at a $100 a plate fund raising dinner here.

The upshot of the performance seemed to be that no body started any bandwagons rolling. This was confirmed by a check of the men in a position to control the big-vote delegations likely to have the final say in any down-to-the-wire contest that develops in the Los Angeles convention.

Truman, who retains strong influence with a minority segment of the party, dealt something of a blow to the incipient candidacy of Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), when he told the group he has no commitments on any aspirant.

Blasts Kennedy
In a 2-hour talk to some 500 Teamster members and their wives from the Mauston-New Lisbon area, Hoffa singled out Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts as one of his political enemies. He

Hazards Overcome

6 Ships Win Tug-of-War With Disaster After Vessels Collide

BY COLIN FROST

Aboard a Plane Over the English Coast—AP—On the crinkled waters of the Spithead channel today six ships played tug-of-war—with life or death as the prize.

Four of the ships were British tugs. Their task was to pull a part, an American freighter and a Norwegian freighter looked together after a shattering collision. The American ship's nose was firmly fixed in the tanker's port bow and gradually the port bow and gradually the

Lt. Cmdr. Philip A. Hogue two drifted toward the shallows in a coast guard helicopter and direct a .95-foot patrol boat to the scene.

The three Negroes have been missing since Wednesday when they left on a fishing trip in a 14-foot boat. They are Essex Scott, 38, second mate of the Ink Spots; Cyrus M. Jollivette, 40, Miami drug gust; and James Trachan, 60, ships were under tow and their way to safety.

Danger of Fire
Fire was the biggest danger. The tanker's cargo was highly inflammable oil. Yet another peril was a huge float, planted in the channel to beat side.

The tugs won their battle—and just in time. Soon the two ships were under tow and their way to safety.

This correspondent watched the last stages of the drama from a low-circling aircraft. A huge gap showed in the tanker's side like a slice from a gigantic cake. The American ship's bow was shattered.

As the plane swooped low you could see right into the freighter's forward hold, littered with crumpled packing cases, and see waves on the other side.

Three men stood on the foredeck of the tanker, the 11,000-ton Gorm of Oslo. One looked up briefly to wave to the plane. Then he turned back with the others anxiously watching the waves lapping over the listing ship's port side.

The freighter, the 6,125-ton Santa Alicia, showed not a sign of life above decks. Twenty of the crew had been taken off because of the risk of fire.

But men were still at work down below. Soon after the ships came apart, the Santa Alicia's crew started churning to help the tugs avoid the dangerous shallows.

A tug called the Flying Kestrel took the Santa Alicia in charge, towing her stern first to keep seawater out of her gaping forward hold.

Remain on Guard
The tanker, heavily laden and much the larger ship, had two tugs. One was ahead and the other alongside.

As slowly they moved up channel toward Southampton, fire floats cruised with them. Two destroyers and a frigate kept guard to clear other shipping from their path.

The Santa Alicia, owned by Grace Lines of New York, was sailing out of Southampton for New York when she collided head-on with the Gorm in the pre-dawn darkness.

Search for Plane Wreck

Navy Hopes to Locate Airliner In Gulf of Mexico

New Orleans—AP—The navy today planned to probe the bottom of the Gulf of Mexico for wreckage of a National Airlines plane that carried 42 persons to their death two months ago.

Investigators hoped the wreckage might tell them whether a bomb explosion sent the DC7B hurtling into the water Nov. 16.

They also sought to determine if a missing Tampa man was one of the 29 persons whose bodies have not yet been found.

The missing man, William A. Taylor, 69, was a friend of Dr. Robert V. Spears who was listed as a heavily-insured passenger on the plane but turned up alive in Phoenix, Ariz., last week.

2 Vessels on Way
Two navy vessels headed toward the tip of Louisiana to investigate an object, located by sound gear, under several hundred feet of water.

Diving experts said there was no way to tell in advance what the object was. It might be the plane. It might be just the hulk of an old ship.

The Penguin was to leave Key West with divers aboard for the spot 70 miles south of Biloxi, Miss., where the unidentified object rests on the bottom of the gulf.

Another navy vessel, the Vigor out of Panama City, Fla., was to try to find the wreckage of the airliner that crashed on a flight from Miami to New Orleans.

Only 13 bodies were found amid floating debris after the crash. There was no survivors.

2 Boys Injured When Cylinder Explodes

Racine—AP—Two boys were injured Sunday when a carbon dioxide cylinder they were making into a rocket exploded.

Ronald G. Wolf, 14, was in serious condition with a particle of the metal cartridge in his abdomen.

Richard Kenney, 15, was in fair condition with fragments in his right wrist and left shoulder.

Authorities said the accident occurred in the basement of the Wolf home as the boys stuffed matches into the end of the cartridge.

Sub Zero Weather
In Store for State

Wisconsin—Considerable cloudiness with some light snow or snow flurries and temperatures near 5 below zero over the state tonight.

Tuesday considerable cloudiness and much colder, with chance of a few snow flurries. Outlook for Wednesday: Partly cloudy and very cold with snow flurries likely.

Appleton—Temperatures for the 24-hour period ending 9 a.m. today: High 22, low 16. Temperature at 11 a.m. today 22. Barometer reading 29.85 inches, with wind southwest at five miles an hour. One-fourth inch of new snow.

Sun sets at 4:52 p.m.; rises Tuesday at 7:19 a.m.; moon rises Tuesday at 8:39 a.m.

Investigate Complaints

Man, 2 Boys Robbed, Beaten by Young Trio

City and county authorities are investigating complaints of an Appleton man and two Appleton boys who said they were robbed and beaten by a trio of teenagers Sunday between 11 p. m. and midnight.

Joe Vanden Boogart, 1703 E. Candee street, said he was waiting at E. Newberry and Weimer streets for a companion who was to take him to work when three youths in a black sedan asked him if he wanted a ride. He accepted, he said, and the trio drove him to Kimberly to an area where piles of pulp wood are stored and took his money and cigarettes.

Meanwhile, E. S. Halverson, 331 W. Foster street, reported to Appleton police that his son and another boy were beaten by three youths.

Donald Halverson, 15, and Dennis Nelson, 16, 1731 S. Bouten street, said they were returning home from a show about 11:15 p. m. when, at Oneida and Seymour streets, three youths in a yellow car stopped to ask them if they wanted a ride. When they said no, the boys told police, the three youths jumped out of the car and started to beat up on them. The Nelson boy said he thought one of the trio was using brass knuckles. The Nelson youth received cuts on his lip and head.

Series of Six On Missile Gap Beginning Today

The missile gap, "a problem involving the actual national survival of the United States," will be described this week in a series of six special articles by columnist Joseph Alsop.

The series, which begins today on page B-9, will contain much previously unpublished information, presenting the problem in its true proportions, including differences of opinion.

No Deterrent Gap In Missile Power

Sec. of Air Force Sharp Sees No Overall Superiority for Russians in Next Three Years

Washington —(AP)— Will Russia have more ready-to-go missiles than the United States in any period through 1963? "They might. I think it is doubtful, but they might . . . but in no way will we have an overall deterrent gap," says Secretary of the Air Force Dudley C. Sharp.

Over-all deterrent strength is the important point, Sharp said Sunday in a television interview.

"It isn't whether they have a few more missiles than we have. The important thing is that our total over-all posture is such that they wouldn't dare attack without receiving such a formidable attack themselves that they would never want to do it," he added.

How big might the missile gap be?

If there is one, Sharp said, it will be smaller than the 3-1 superiority which former

Steel Firm Agrees to Use Old Contract

Move Halts Threat Of Strike at Six Pittsburgh Plants

Pittsburgh —(AP)— Pittsburgh Steel company, the only major steel producer still lacking a labor contract with the United Steelworkers, has agreed with the union to operate under an extension of the old pact.

The agreement removed the threat of a strike at Pittsburgh Steel's six plants tomorrow when a Taft-Hartley injunction expires.

The injunction sent employees of most of the major steel firms in the nation back to work last Nov. 7 after a 116-day strike. All of the other big companies since have signed new agreements with the USW.

The U. S. Navy's bathyscaphe Trieste set a new world's record Saturday by diving to the bottom of the Marianas trench in the Pacific, a depth of more than seven miles, the navy announced in Washington.

Plans Legal Action To See His Daughter

Gamble Benedict Returned to New York After Paris Trip With Married Chauffeur

New York —(AP)— Dr. James Douglas Sharpe says he will take action if necessary to see his daughter, Gamble Benedict, 19, the heiress who has been returned here after running away with a married chauffeur.

Sharpe, a Brattleboro, Vt., psychiatrist, was turned away twice Sunday from the east side mansion of Miss Benedict's grandmother, Mrs. Katherine Gedes Benedict.

"This is typical," Sharpe commented after the rebuff. Miss Benedict's brother, Douglas, 21, and Mrs. Benedict's attorney, Robert Hoffman, returned the debutante to her grandmother's home Saturday night. They flew her home from Paris on a court order from French authorities.

Graham, who arrived from Liberia Sunday for the second leg of his crusade in Africa, will remain in Ghana until tomorrow when he has first meeting with Prime Minister Kwame Nkrumah.

Promoter of Circus Club Burns in Bed

Bayville, N. Y. —(AP)— F. Darius Benham, 65, founder of the Circus Saints and Sinners, was burned to death in bed today in his North Shore Long Island estate.

His son and a policeman tried to save him by running a bucket brigade as his wife kept a bathtub filled with water.

Benham was a public relations counsel in New York city in recent years. He founded the Circus Saints and Sinners, a New York city fun-making group which initiates "fall guys" at its luncheons.

Housewife Makes New Water Mark

Pensacola, Fla. —(AP)— A New York housewife who spent a record 100 hours and three minutes under water suffered nothing worse than a disheveled hair.

Miss Jane Baldasare climbed out of her windowed, 9-foot deep tank and said, "I feel like I weigh a ton." The water's buoyancy had made her feel light as a feather.

She was in the big circular tank from 10:30 a.m. Wednesday until 2:33 p.m. Sunday, eclipsing the 84-hour record set by Robert Ingolia of Port Jefferson, N.Y.

Durfee's Conduct Was Unethical, Proxmire Says

Washington —(AP)— Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis) today opposed the nomination of James Durfee for a federal judgeship on grounds of what he called unethical conduct in Durfee's present job as Civil Aeronautics board chairman.

Proxmire set forth his opposition at a hearing to consider Durfee for a lifetime appointment, at $25,000 a year, mustache-served him equal to the U. S. Court of claims. But Proxmire told Senate Judiciary Subcommittee Chairman James O. Eastland (D-Miss) he will not resort to calling Durfee's nomination "personally obnoxious" to him.

If Kennedy Wins State Primary He'll Beat Nixon

Fond Du Lac —(AP)— Robert Kennedy predicted Sunday that if his brother, Sen. John Kennedy (D-Mass.), wins Wisconsin's primary he'll go on to defeat Vice President Richard M. Nixon for the presidency.

"If my brother does well here he'll get the Democratic party's nomination and beat Nixon," he told a Wisconsin Kennedy for President club meeting. "If he doesn't make a good showing, he is going to have a difficult time."

Hoffa Served Court Papers on Defunct Local

Lake Delton —(AP)— A U.S. marshal met Teamster President James R. Hoffa shortly after he arrived here at 10 a.m. Sunday and served papers naming the International Brotherhood of Teamsters a defendant in a lawsuit involving $63,000 borrowed by now defunct Local 158 Milwaukee Teamsters.

The lawsuit stemmed from the union's borrowing the $63,000 from Lumberman's Credit corporation, John P. Nichols, secretary-treasurer of the defunct local, has been named in two warrants charging him with violations of Wisconsin's welfare fund reporting law.

Fined were Patrick J. Dodd, 20, route 3, Oshkosh; Ralph D. Peters, 48, route 2, Fond du Lac, and Ira Archquette, 42, Oneida.

Dodd was arrested at 1:15 a.m. Saturday after his car hit a street barricade at Algoma and High streets in Oshkosh. He tested .16 on the breathalyzer. His fine was $100 in municipal court at Oshkosh this morning.

Peters was arrested at 6:58 p.m. Saturday on Highway 45 in the Town of Black Wolf. His car failed to negotiate a curve, hit a utility pole, crossed ice on a creek and ended up in a farmyard. Police said it traveled 631 feet after leaving the road.

Peters was taken to Mercy hospital, Oshkosh, in a squad car and treated for cuts around the eyes. He tested .20 on the breathalyzer. He was fined $100 in Oshkosh municipal court this morning.

Archquette, pleaded guilty of drunken driving, operating a car without driver's license and leaving the scene of an accident.

He was sentenced to six months in the county jail by Justice Oscar T. Jahns at Kaukauna this morning when he was unable to pay fines of $100 for drunken driving, $25 for no driver's license and $25 for leaving the scene.

Archquette was arrested about 6:15 p.m. Sunday after his car collided with a parked vehicle on Park street in Kaukauna. He was arrested on Dodge street after residents complained of his driving.

Byrnes Won't Seek Post of Vice President

Non-Campaigner
Probably Will Not Be Chosen, He Says

Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — Rep. John Byrnes said this weekend he does not believe anyone is offered the vice presidential nomination if he does not campaign for it and he has no plans to seek the nomination.

Byrnes has been mentioned by some Wisconsin Republicans as a possible running mate to Vice President Richard Nixon. The Jackson county Republican executive committee this month adopted a resolution endorsing Byrnes.

Byrnes gave his reaction in an interview on WJPG.

Will Seek Re-election

"The possibility is remote that I am going to lose any sleep worrying about what my decision would be. It is unlikely, I think, that anyone will be offered the vice presidential nomination who does not actively seek it, and I can say I have no intention of seeking it," Byrnes said. Byrnes said his political plans were "to continue to do the best job I can as a member of congress from Wisconsin and to seek reelection to that post next fall."

Byrnes has been a member of congress since 1944, is chairman of the house Republican policy committee and is second ranking Republican on the ways and means committee. He and Nixon began their congressional service at the same time.

As a midwesterner, Byrnes could balance the ticket headed by Nixon of California. Since he is a Catholic, some politicians view Byrnes as a potential balance to any Democratic ticket including Sen. John Kennedy.

Love Letter Thrills Both Husband, Wife, Even After 12 Years

Salt Lake City — (U) — Mrs. Frank Siciliano, Jr., got a love letter from Los Angeles the other day. She was thrilled. Her husband? Oh, he was, too.

The letter was from him. He wrote it to her 12 years ago, two years before they got married, when he was working in Los Angeles.

The mail was not always so slow in those days, but nobody could figure out exactly where that missive had been since it was sent, postmarked Sept. 5, 1947.

Rules On How To Protect Your Parakeet & Canary During Winter Months

Pet birds need more care in the winter. Most of the five million birds owned in the United States are tropical in nature, such as the parakeet, and they are keenly susceptible to chilling drafts. It will be advisable to follow these simple rules:

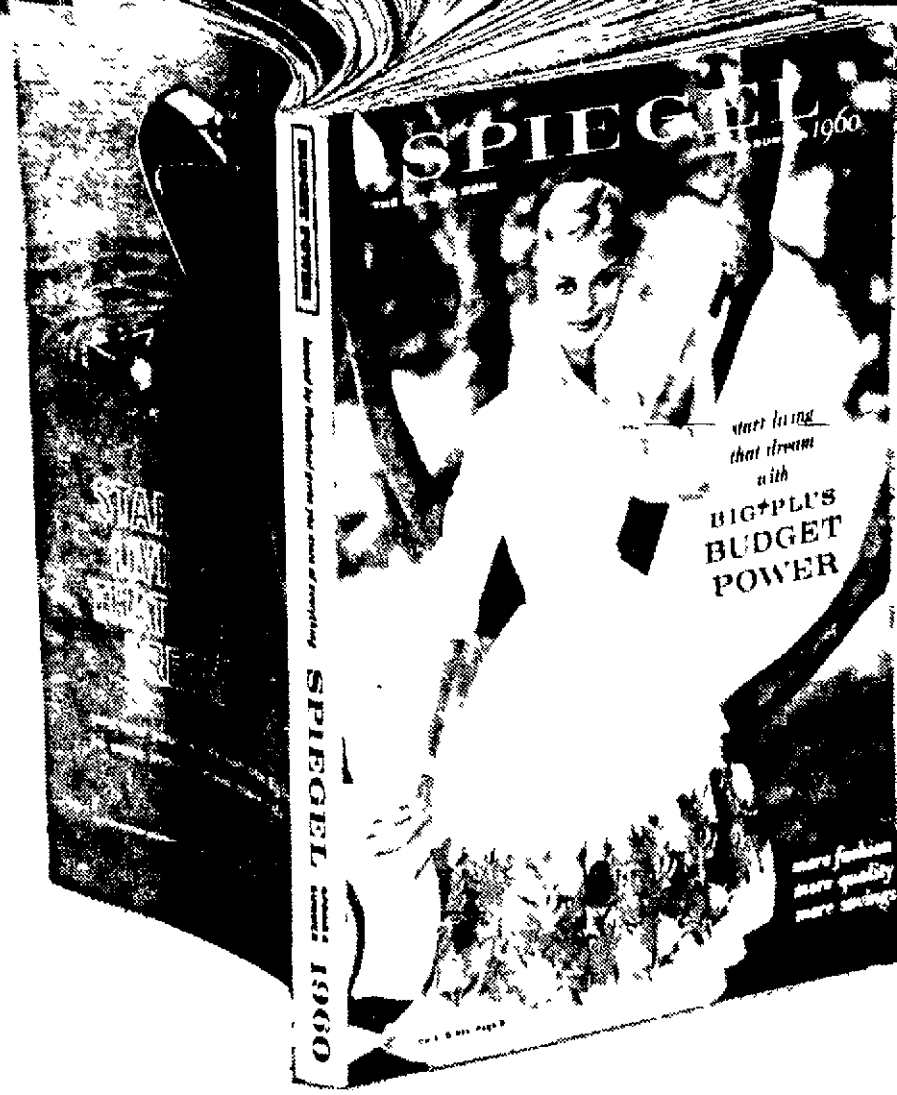

1. Keep caged birds in a room of moderate temperature, about 70 degrees. Place the cage away from windows and sufficiently high to avoid floor drafts.
2. Avoid rooms such as bedrooms, where temperature varies greatly.
3. If room temperature is lowered at night, cover the cage with a cloth.
4. Don't leave your bird near the radiator, in a very hot room, or exposed to direct sunlight.
5. If your bird likes baths, don't let him take one in the evening. He should be absolutely dry before going to roost.
6. If you find your bird shivering, put a cloth over his cage and place it near a lighted 60 watt bulb until the bird stops shivering.
7. Pay particular attention to the bird's diet. It should have these basic items — seed, treat and conditioning food, gravel, cuttlebone and water.

Ezra Williams, Former City Clerk, 91 Today

BY DAVID SCHAEFER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Ezra L. Williams, who celebrates his 91st birthday anniversary today, last week did something the thought of which strikes terror in the hearts of many younger men. Unassisted, he made out his 1959 income tax return.

This is typical of Williams, for he is a man who would not use his age as an excuse to shirk any duty.

Williams was born Jan. 25, 1869, in Franklin county, New York. When he was 20, he married his sweetheart and moved to Smithport, Penn.

In 1891 a son, Vinton, was born to the young couple. But joy in the family was short-lived for Vinton's mother died shortly afterward.

Williams decided to leave the east when his wife died, and, leaving Vinton with his grandparents, he made his way to Buffalo, N.Y.

"In Buffalo there was a street four blocks long lined with ticket scalpers," Williams says. "I went up to one and asked him what he had. He said he had one ticket to Antigo, Wis. that he'd let me have for $5 because the train was scheduled to leave in a few hours. I took it."

It was 1891. Williams stayed in Antigo for a few days and eventually took a job in a butcher shop. He worked there for two years, then "had a slight disagreement with the boss" and took up railroad work. He worked as a brakeman on the Milwaukee, Lakeshore

Ezra L. Williams, 91 today, has lost none of the zest for living that carried him through his earlier years in a butcher shop, working for the railroad and a long tenure as Appleton city clerk. and Western railroad — now the North Western—until his hand was injured in an accident. In 1894 he came to Appleton and worked as a brakeman out of Kaukauna.

He was assigned to the "scoot" run that ferried workers between Appleton and Kimberly for their work in the mills.

In 1893, Williams married a second time and sent for his son in 1895, a second son, Luman, was born. Until his retirement recently, Luman operated the Modern Dry Cleaners on E. College avenue.

On May 9, 1903, the elder Williams' right leg was crushed when he slipped under a train. It had to be amputated. Unable to continue working, he became active in work for the Appleton Republican party.

"Every day at about 4 p.m. I'd take my buckboard down to the old Appleton brewery and pick up a quarter barrel of beer. Then I'd throw a blanket over it and take it down to the old Fourth ward, an all-Democrat area. The ward voted Republican in the election of 1904."

Frank Harriman was voted in as mayor and appointed Williams city clerk.

Williams served as city clerk for the next 24 years. It was during this period that Appleton adopted the commission form of government. From 1911 to 1918 a board of commissioners was in charge of city government, then the aldermanic form came back. He left office in 1928, and after the crash of 1929 opened a book and magazine store and postal station in Luman's dry cleaning plant on College avenue. He operated the business until 1947, when, at 78, he retired.

Today, at 91, Williams is as alert and energetic as many men half his age. Although confined to a wheelchair, he is interested in what's happening around him.

He meets guests at the door and talks with enthusiasm about the past years. His son says, "It's hard to believe he has two retired sons." Vinton lives in Florida.

Well Drilling Permits Drop During 1959

Health Board Man Urges Reports to Check on Damage

Stevens Point — Although permits granted for agricultural irrigation wells soared in 1958, they dropped from 141 to 91 last year, according to Thomas Calabresa, well drilling supervisor of the state board of health.

Calabresa was one of many speakers Saturday discussing water problems at a state conservation water committee meeting here.

He urged high capacity well owners to file state well reports. Then the facts of water consumption and levels are available if neighbors complain an irrigator is drying up area wells, he claimed.

Acts on Complaint Although statutes provide no recourse for wells allegedly dried by an irrigator, Calabresa said department checks of well construction, or installation of throttling apparatus, often halts complaints.

Water levels are rising said C. L. Holt, Jr., district U.S. Geological survey geologist. He said levels had declined in the last five years, but were generally climbing this fall.

Policy on trout stream diversion listed by W. E. Scott, committee liaison, indicated conservation permits for trout stream diversion for irrigation would be difficult, but not impossible to get.

Humphrey Hits at 'Pockets Of Depression' in Nation

Charlestown, W. Va. — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) said today there are "too many pockets of depression and despair" in the United States for any American "to feel complacent about our national strength."

Humphrey, who is seeking the Democratic presidential nomination, expressed this point of view in a speech to the West Virginia state house of delegates.

"The fact that the West Virginia legislature is grappling with questions of supplying food for the hungry and other welfare measures points up the bitter fact that the prosperity we hear so much about is certainly not a general prosperity," he said.

More Jobs, Higher Pay "Poverty is always a tragedy, any time and any place. But poverty in a land that is enjoying a national product close to $500 billion is more than a tragedy—it is a national scandal."

Humphrey said it is clear that the greatest hope for eliminating poverty is regular employment at decent wages.

"That," he said, "means a number of things."

"It means making it easier—not harder—for unions to organize the unorganized and bring them the economic benefits of collective bargaining."

"It means raising the federal minimum wage at once to at least $1.25—and, even more importantly—extending

Water Hearing Treats Farm 'Plaints Lightly

Assistant Attorney General's Levy Brings Rebuff From Federation Head

BY JOHN WELLS Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Stevens Point — Farmers seeking protection of farm water rights got "bums-rush" type treatment Saturday during a state waters committee meeting on Wisconsin water problems.

The farmers claimed a diminishing water supply, placed the blame with large irrigators and asked for equal use of water resources.

Roy G. Tulane, assistant attorney general, answered the farmers' questions and drew laughter with most of his replies and comments.

Calls For Apology The light treatment changed quickly after Les Woerpel, head of the Wisconsin Federation of Conservation Clubs, stood for the farmers. He said they were not a localized group, but represented a 2,000 member organization, the Farmers Water Protective association.

Woerpel said the group had been "treated lightly, but that they had a right to tell their beliefs and have them considered." He said "you people should be ashamed" and claimed an apology was in order.

Steve Kuklinski, director of the farm group, asked protection of farm wells and called for a halt to water diversion for irrigation.

Kuklinski claimed diminishing water supply and asked who was more important, "potato growers or farmers?" An irrigator told Kuklinski the nearest potato irrigator to him was 15 miles away.

Another farmer said thousands of farmers were knocked out of business by the big growers. He said he quit growing potatoes.

After the subject was changed, Kuklinski asked the assistant attorney general if the meeting was supposed to be an expression of opinion? He said "it seems the minority with a few bucks override the majority."

Attended Hearing Tulane asked the farmer if he was trying to kill competition. The attorney also asked if Kuklinski had written his legislators to promote a bill last summer which would have protected farm water interests. Kuklinski said he was at the Madison hearings.

Clarence Rosemarnewski, a farmer, claimed deep irrigation wells were drying up farm wells. "We were to Madison twice, but they're for the irrigators," he said.

The protective association representatives handed out

Woman Found Beaten in Car

Detroit — A woman was found beaten to death in a car which police stopped Sunday night for driving with its lights out.

The driver, Richard E. Warren, Jr., 27, warehouse worker, was held for investigation of murder.

Police identified the woman as Mrs. Theresa Johnson, 38, Dearborn, divorcee and mother of a 21-year-old son.

Detective Sgt. Harold Cooper said that Warren, married and father of two sons, admitted striking Mrs. Johnson on the head with a 14-inch tire iron when they quarreled after he picked her up in a bar.

Two patrolmen discovered the body of Mrs. Johnson when they flashed a light into the car.

policy statements. Summarized, the points are:

Water is a public resource and must be available without restriction; nobody should divert from streams, lakes and rivers; irrigation from wells must be controlled, and uncontrolled pumping could put farmers out of business and cause unemployment problems.

Michigan Eyes the Unicameral Legislature

The state of Michigan has been in serious difficulty for many months because of the division of power between the Democratic and Republican parties. As a way out of their difficulties some of the Democratic leaders have proposed a one chamber or unicameral legislature.

Michigan now has a Democratic governor, an Assembly with 110 members divided equally between the Republican and Democratic parties, and a Senate of 34 members divided 22 Democratic to 12 Republican. The favorable Republican holding in the Senate probably is due to the fact Senate districts are based on area rather than population. Under the present arrangement it is utterly impossible for the Democrats ever to get control of the Senate.

However, after the 1960 census the problem of reapportionment will be up again and it is always possible to bring about reapportionment upon a population basis. The Republican politicians in Michigan are charging that the Democrats have proposed the one chamber plan as a means of getting rid of the reapportionment problem. The Republicans contend further that the Democrats would face the same problem in a unicameral legislature. Since the Assembly is presumably based upon population and now is divided equally between the two parties, it is difficult to see how there would be any great advantage to either party in setting up a 1-house legislature.

It appears unlikely that the people of Michigan will favor such a change. In spite of the recent difficulties in Michigan there are many advantages to a 2-house legislature. The state of Nebraska is the only state in the union with a 1-house legislature and while it has continued in force for many years, its success has not been outstanding. At least no other state has followed its example and for very good reasons.

Wisconsin has a division in its legislature similar to that in Michigan but it has not experienced the same degree of difficulty in getting legislation adopted. There may be more difficulties in the future before the tax program is handled but it probably will not prove as serious as the problems that would arise in a 1-house legislature. Over and over again in the recent history of Wisconsin the advantage of having two houses in a legislature, one to check upon the activities of the other, has been made very clear to the people.

Hasty legislation often is worse than no legislation. And hasty legislation in the Assembly frequently is corrected in the Senate. Even so, there is enough poor legislation passed by both houses to keep the governor and his staff busy as the second very valuable check point. Even with the two houses and the governor's staff checking on legislation an astonishing amount gets into the statutes only to be brought up for correction at the next session of the legislature. The indications are that both Michigan and Wisconsin would be better off with more safeguards rather than less.

Russian Farm Problems

Those Americans who get all hot and bothered about the Soviet victory in getting the first and more sputniks aloft should take a look at the Russian agricultural figures. The farm failure may not be so spectacular as the missile success, and that may be one reason why it has been a failure, but it points out again the indifference of the Communist mentality to humanitarian values.

Two years ago a virgin land area in Kazakhstan was opened for farming despite dire predictions that the weather was unfavorable. The Russians were jubilant when one-third of all Soviet grain for market was produced in the area. But in 1959 the highly touted production not only failed to climb to the expected high levels; it fell below that of 1958.

The local boss was one Belyaev, a member of the ruling Presidium and a personal friend of Khrushchev. His report this year put all the blame on the weather. There was a late spring, an extended drought and an early snow. But Khrushchev is obviously willing or perhaps even enthused about giving his former pal a black eye. He charged that 18,000 tractors and 32,000 combines were on the blink just when they were needed the most. Said atheist Khrushchev righteously, "Why blame the Lord God and say that the grain didn't ripen? Sow in time and then the Lord will say, you did your part and now I'll do Mine."

Whether or not the men who could fix the farm machinery have been too busy repairing missiles or whether the lessons all the Russian visitors learned in Iowa just didn't soak in has not been revealed. But with grain production down, both beef and hog production will go down. Russia claims to have higher butter and milk production than the United States but counts horse, sheep and yak milk as well as that regularly in the dairy trade. And, obviously, the U. S. is not trying to build up agriculture production to be put away in storage.

Here, at any rate, is a good source of material for the United States Information Agency. Unless it has been too stifled by the spirit of Camp David, the message of the Russian agricultural failure should be broadcast repeatedly to the underdeveloped nations who need increased production to keep their people from starvation. Food still is necessary, even for a trip to the moon.

Drunks on Airliners

The new regulations concerning the drinking of intoxicating liquor aboard commercial airliners, as announced by the Federal Aviation Agency, are sound and reasonable. They may not completely solve the annoying problem but they should help ease the situation.

Investigation has shown the problem drinkers on airliners generally are not those who are served by the airlines. Instead they are the ones who get loaded on the ground or who bring their own flasks along and tinkle constantly while on the flight. The danger element from a noisy, irresponsible drunk is obvious; from the commercial point of view, a few experiences with a drunken nuisance can do a lot toward cutting passenger interest in flying.

With these facts in mind, members of the Federal Aviation Agency point out that the regulations aim "only for the air safety considerations and not for the social or moral aspects." Passengers still may bring their own bottles aboard but if they do any of the pouring themselves they are subject to fines up to $1,000. Crew members may decide from appearances only whether a passenger should be served a drink. The emphasis of control is where it belongs, on the troublemaker and not on the majority of persons who may be served liquor aboard airliners without any ill effects.

There still will be problems with the inebriated aboard planes. But strict application of the regulations, the denial of space to those who do appear intoxicated, and a few big, well-publicized fines should have some effect.

To Ski or Not

Americans may get into minor hassles over the Olympic Games, the people who get bounced off teams, the various "amateur" requirements in different sports, and the competition with the Russians. But in tiny Liechtenstein the whole matter of the Olympic Winter Games at Squaw Valley has reached the highest governmental levels.

Since Liechtenstein is in the Alps, it probably has some capable skiers. Three of them, with the team manager, Baron Eduard Alexander von Falz-Fein, were slated to head for California for the games next month. But last summer the Baron organized a "little summit" meeting between representatives of Liechtenstein, Andorra, Monaco and San Marino, the lilliputian nations of Europe. They discussed tourism and the printing of stamps but they angered Prince Francis Joseph II who heads the government of Liechtenstein. In fact, according to the irate prince, they ridiculed "Liechtenstein in the eyes of the world." Pretty soon the baron was fired as ski manager.

Then, in a move which would turn Avery Brundage purple, the Liechtenstein Olympic Committee voted not to send the team at all because it didn't have a chance of winning. The baron roared about sportsmanship and the game for the game's sake. The committee relented and ruled that the team could go if it finished not more than 30 seconds behind the winner in a Swiss run this month.

But the baron is going to Squaw Valley regardless. He is an official of the International Tobogganing Federation and the taxpayers of Liechtenstein and even Prince Joseph won't have to be bothered.

Speeding Fines Pay Off With Safety Record

From the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin

New Jersey's program of mandatory license suspension for automobile speeding wound up its first year in 1960 came in, and more than 31,000 drivers had cause to be sorry for themselves.

And maybe they learned a lesson.

The tickets are given out for exceeding posted limits by more than 10 miles an hour. They bring a minimum license suspension of 30 days. Consideration now is being given to the advisability of ticketing drivers who may exceed posted limits by only a mile or two an hour.

As might be expected from Jersey's geographical position, most of the offending drivers were from outside the state. Pennsylvania accounted for 27 per cent, New Yorkers for 22 per cent, and those from other states 22 per cent.

One thing has been accomplished by the program. That is the creation of a healthy respect for the speed limits, both in the open country and on the toll roads, which incidentally, set a new safety record during the year.

Just Reaping What We've Sown

What Others are Saying
Steel Settlement All You Can Expect in an Extortion Case

From The Wall Street Journal

There is no use pretending. The steel settlement is, not only a political victory for the union but it also gives a big upward thrust to the inflationary wage-price spiral.

This is so despite the fact that the settlement is, as U. S. Steel Chairman Roger Blough says, "less inflationary" than others in the past or that the steel companies may forgo price increases now. For no matter how you slice it, the new contract adds upwards of a billion dollars to the wage costs of this basic industry. Leaves the companies as helpless as ever before wasteful union work-rules, and gives an upward bias to all new wage negotiations in other industries.

Further, the contract almost guarantees a continuation of the inflation spiral in the future. Indeed, the heaviest cost burdens will not fall on the industry until the second and third years, which makes the present "no price increase" promise an illusion. And not the least of its evils is that the new contract leaves the American steel industry, already hard pressed by foreign producers, less able to meet world competition.

Yet after all this has been said it is also true — given the circumstances that existed at the bargaining table — that this is as good a settlement as the country had any right to expect. Vice President Nixon's efforts have probably spared the nation's economy something worse.

To unravel this seeming paradox, and to take the full measure of what the nation has to contend with, it is necessary to look for a moment at those circumstances surrounding the bargaining table these past few days.

The two parties, labor and management, were by no means equal. The union had already closed down almost the whole of the steel industry for a period of four months, and as the New Year turned it was quite plain that it could, and probably would, do so again. In the Taft-Hartley election, a few days hence, the union members would vote to support the union leaders for reasons of "solidarity," if for no other.

Mr. McDonald's union had previously obtained from the aluminum and can industries a pay-package which, converted to the steel industry's higher and different pay scale, would have meant the equivalent of 47 to 48 cents in additional steel wage costs. With the Taft-Hartley vote behind him, and the earlier pay package dangling before the membership, Mr. McDonald would be under less pressure to settle than he had been before.

Moreover, the steel companies had before them the clear prospect that the absence of a settlement this month would mean some form of compulsory settlement forced by the government. The Taft-Hartley law requires the president to put the case to congress, and congress was clearly in the mood to write a law to force a settlement.

Such an enforced settlement in the present political circumstances, as both Mr. McDonald and the steel companies well knew, would be a compromise — something less, perhaps, than the asking price of the union (about 47 cents) but a good deal more than the company's offer (about 33 cents) or more than what might presently be settled for.

So here, then, was a set of circumstances that put Mr. McDonald in the catbird seat. He possessed a power held by no other person in the land — the power to

Under the Capitol Dome
Senate Vote on 4-Year Terms Means Little

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—The state senate the other day gave a belated and reluctant vote of approval to a proposed constitutional amendment that, if finally adopted, will pave the way to permitting a lengthening of the term of office of elected officials from two to four years.

But the fact that the vote of passage was so narrow almost certainly spells doom ing, either, that the result will be any different in the future, so long as the same circumstances prevail.

When the highwayman has a pistol at a man's head it is foolish prattle to talk about how he should stand on principle or blame him because he yields. Nor is it any great blessing that the highwayman takes, perhaps, a little less than he might have demanded — although it can, of course, be a relief if he does. The only protection is for society to take away the instrument of force.

So it is equally foolish to think that the steel industry, or any other, is going to stand fast and hold the line against the inflationary wage-price spiral when it is confronted with a power such as is now held by the labor unions. All the devices of amelioration which have been suggested in Congress — extension of the Taft-Hartley injunctions, compulsory arbitration or wage fixing by boards — will not ameliorate the relentless upward pressure on wages, on costs and hence, on prices.

The most such things can do, is to brake the rise a little if, as happened here, a union is persuaded to take a little less than it might have obtained by fighting further. Indeed, it is a credit to Mr. Nixon, or somebody, that he persuaded Mr. McDonald that it was better to get so much without further struggle than to pay that price for a little bit more. We are indebted to Mr. McDonald's recognition that enough is enough.

This was not a "good" settlement for the industry, for the country — even, we suspect, for the steel workers themselves. Even they lost more from the strike than they will put in their pockets for a long time to come, and those who labor in the mills will be the chief losers as those mills are less able to meet the competition of others.

It was simply as good a settlement as the country has had in steel, or can ever expect so long as the country permits any union to hold up the country until it extorts what it wishes.

for the proposition, either in the assembly, or in the senate or the assembly in 1961 when the proposal must pass muster again before it can be submitted to a vote of the people in a direct referendum.

To many persons of an academic turn of mind this will be regretted. Virtually everyone who has sat in a college class in political science in the last quarter of a century has been exposed to some of the favorite and mild reforms of the academic political scientist. This one perhaps shares a place with the short ballot in the affections of most teachers of the subject in the classroom.

THE OUTLOOK

Yet the outlook is poor, and why?

The answer is that the average citizen is either totally indifferent, or he is vaguely hostile to the idea of giving elected politicians longer terms of office.

There are states in this country, including some of the big states, which have 4-year terms for their governors and other officials and the voters there are evidently content. This state could have provided for longer terms when its constitutional framework was written. It did, in fact, provide for 4-year terms for members of the state senate and for the superintendent of public instruction, for example.

Yet to change the existing rules and lengthen terms now sounds faintly undemocratic to many ears, in that it serves to reduce to however slight degree the control of the electorate over the men who are ruling.

A close observer in the gallery might have concluded that the senate's cursory vote the other day was in large part a tribute to the author of the proposition, popular Sen. Robert P. Knowles. Even some of the senators voting for the measure on the roll call, it can be guessed, would refuse to commit themselves the next time around, or are privately convinced that there won't be a next time.

These realities of politics are sometimes difficult for the distant citizen, not intimately acquainted with men and methods in political life, to appreciate. But there are many other examples of changes that may very well be solid improvements but which have no chance of approval whatever.

HOW IT GOES

How long have the academicians discussed the absurdity of choosing a country registrar on a partisan ballot, or of electing him at all?

How many solemn editorials have been written and lectures delivered about the unfortunate rigidities of the county government structure, about the need for county executive direction, about more equal representation on county boards? On more immediate matters, how often have responsible organizations lamented the purely political rigging of some of the tax laws, as in exemptions, for example, totally without effect?

Legislation usually follows the popular will, even if it is sometimes slow in registering, and legislators as a class are the best experts in assessing that will. What the people of Wisconsin want, if they know what it is, they will get sooner or later.

When the senate voted lackadaisically the other day on lengthening the terms of public officials, it was a pretty broad hint that it has no awareness of popular demand here, and that the next time around it will refuse the vote until it is sure.

Looking Backward
Suggests German Farmer Club

79 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of Jan. 29, 1881.

The Farmers Club of Grand Chute in Outagamie county is proving of great interest and benefit to the farmers. It has been suggested to the Crescent that the German speaking population of Centre, Ellington and Greenville is so large that they should form Farmers' clubs in each of these towns to work in the German language. It would certainly advance their interests.

loans. The amount was double the 1934 appropriation.

Appleton Y.M.C.A. was to observe the twentieth anniversary of the opening and dedication of the association building with a series of programs that summer. T. E. Orison, president of the board, was instructed to name a committee to handle the events.

Reconsideration of the swimming pool committee report adopted by the common council was scheduled for a special meeting. Mayor Goodland felt the report adopted binds the city to engage one architect to design and construct the pool and it was his opinion that the matter should be left open to competitive bidding.

Secret service men were at work in the state checking the source of counterfeit currency, a quantity of which was reported in Appleton and other Fox river valley and lake shore cities.

Milk Groups Angered By Contamination Talk

National Federation Seeks Meeting With Eisenhower to Discuss Its Problems

BY FRANCES MCKUSICK
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

Washington — The national milk federation, which has members scattered in cities throughout Wisconsin, is so burned up over statements issued about contaminated milk by Arthur S. Flemming, secretary of health, education and welfare, that the federation officials here have asked for the opportunity to air their troubles to President Eisenhower next week, if possible.

It all stems from press releases which Mr. Flemming has been issuing lately about the presence of penicillin in milk causing "sensitivity" in human beings and the presence of pesticides constituting an alleged cancer hazard.

"If milk is impure or unsafe for human consumption, let Mr. Flemming's men seize it, but keep still about it," Mr. Patrick B. Healy, assistant secretary of the federation, said in an interview with this reporter. "He's had the power to seize contaminated foods for years."

Shut Up Flemming
"Frankly, we think Eisenhower is the only man who can shut up Flemming," Healy continued.

We want to ask the president to see that Flemming becomes the policeman he is supposed to be, and ceases to act as though he were the world's greatest town crier.

Charging that Flemming is using his official position to attract publicity to himself, Healy said that if Flemming's scare campaign on milk resulted in a drop in business to dairy farmers of only one or two per cent, "we would be in serious trouble."

"If Flemming keeps on talking about how dangerous milk can be, and we lose even a small percentage of our commercial market, we'll be right back to where we were in 1954, when there were 555 million pounds of butter in the warehouses," asserted Healy. "Fortunately, we have Secretary of Agriculture Benson on our side, but he is a fellow cabinet member with Flemming, so he can't speak out fully."

Well Instructed
Dairy farmers, Healy added, are well instructed how to handle the use of penicillin in the treatment of mastitis, and cooperatives know how to test milk for presence of the drug. If it is found, even in the smallest quantities, it should be thrown out.

Although the individual dairy farmer generally can control the sale of any milk which might have penicillin in it, the situation is different with pesticides.

Healy explained that often highway departments sprayed roadsides with pesticides, sometimes some of it dropped on wheat with the result that occasionally the cows ate the wheat, and some of the residue gets into the milk.

Work on Methods
Research chemists are working on methods of detecting the presence of pesticide, he said, and even if it reached the milk, the quantity would be minimal.

Whether such an amount, or any amount for that matter, would be suspect of causing cancer is still undetermined, Healy emphasized.

"We will suggest to the president that he appoint a scientific commission to re-

Stock Fever Hits School Students

Harrisburg, Pa. — The stock market fever has hit the ninth grade at the West Shore Junior High school near here.

Given a choice of investing their money in savings bonds or stocks as part of a business education course, the 65 students chose stocks.

"The idea of speculation caused a great deal of enthusiasm among the pupils," explains teacher John Anthony. "So much interest has developed they plan to buy shares in other stock before long."

Each contributes about 30 cents to buy an $18.59 share in a chemical company.

port findings on the affect of insecticides and pesticides on the human body," Healy stated. "We further would like members of this commission to be recommended by scientific organizations, such as the Academy of Scientists, the American Medical association and the Sloan-Kettering institute."

Interesting Report
He said such a report of such a commission should also be of interest to the cranberry industry, and that portion of the poultry industry which raises caponettes — the bird that recently was also "under fire" by Secretary Flemming.

The Pure Milk association, with headquarters in Chicago, is a member of the national milk federation, which also has members in Plymouth, Antigo, Shawano, Juneau, Milwaukee, Manitowish and Madison, all of which apparently endorse the stand-

Franklin, N. J. — If you can't buy it, build it, says the Township committee.

The committee recently decided it needed a new, larger desk. The cost: $2,000. Too much, decided the committee.

Result: Councilman J. Wilford Vilet built one, big enough and strong enough to withstand the council's most heated arguments.

The cost to the council was $200 worth of wood. Vilet said the table would not have a glass top. "We're supposed to be nonpartisan but anything can happen."

Ruth St. Denis Still Active Dancer at 82

BY RAY KOHN New York — (AP) — Here's a switch: They held an 80th birthday celebration for dancer Ruth St. Denis, but she says she's 82. Snowy-haired, tall, trim, and still giving recitals, Miss St. Denis was feted Sunday by scores of dance celebrities. Her birthday really was Wednesday, but they had to wait until she arrived in New York after three 1-night stands across the country. The gracious lady is just about as agile as she was when she made her Broadway debut in the 1890s, only she now cuts down the length of her solo recitals.

With women half her age being mum about the number of their birthdays, Miss St. Denis decidedly is unique. In most reference books, the year of her birth is listed as 1880.

But at the party, given for her by dancer Martha Graham, Miss St. Denis said: "My husband (dancer Ted Shawn, they've been married 45 years) insists I'm 80, and he's stubborn about it. But I say I'm 82 and I have an old passport dating back to my Belasco days (about 1900) to prove it!"

Famed here and abroad, Miss St. Denis now lives in Hollywood, where she directs a dance school and choreographs. She founded a dance department at Adelphi college, Long Island, 20 years ago. She will be artist-in-residence at the college this winter-and-spring semester.

With her husband, who escorted her to the party, Miss St. Denis founded the Denishawn dancers and schools of the dance.

How does she keep in such superb condition? She eats sensibly, exercises regularly — doing stretches, back bends, splits, kicks and head-stands every morning.

Doesn't she ever get tired? Sure she does, but she's learned how to relax. Often, at parties, she'll excuse herself for a short while, hunt up a quiet corner and take a snooze.

TV Industry Out to Please Its Audience

Official Says It Must Avoid Pitfall Of 'Narrowcasting'

New York — (AP) — Television is moving toward a more aggressive attitude about itself and its product.

The new industry line has been emerging in bits and pieces. Now it has been enunciated by Louis Hausman, director of the Television Information office, in a recent speech before the Radio-Television Executives society.

Basically and boiled down, the new TV viewpoint is this: Almost 90 per cent of American families own TV sets, and increased numbers of programs covering world events and excursions into the arts, pointed out that if the medium becomes too immersed in subjects of interest to a limited number, broadcasting will become "narrowcasting."

This viewpoint isn't new. Cecil B. DeMille defended his movie spectacles, which were enormously popular with the public but usually clobbered by the critics and intellectuals.

Allen to Add Think Piece To His Show

'Meeting of Minds' Round Table Set For Feb. 1 Program

BY BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

Hollywood — Can viewers of a prime-time TV variety show stand to think?

Steve Allen believes so. At least he's willing to test the theory on his Monday night clam-bake. Starting Feb. 1, he is instituting a 20-minute segment called "Meeting of Minds." Don't look for Don Knotts to pull his twitch or Louis Nye to crash through a wall. The Allen gang won't participate in this sketch.

"In our first one, we'll have Aristotle, Montaigne, Hegel, Dostoevski, Freud and Clarence Darrow," Allen reported.

Based on Writings The idea is that these great minds take part in a round table discussion on a matter each has been concerned with — in this case, punishment. Actors will impersonate the sages in a give-and-take session based on actual writings.

"It wouldn't be right to interpret their words on mat-

Naming of Characters Touchy Job

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

New York — Currently appearing in the CBS-radio daytime serial "The Second Mrs. Burton" is a character named Jack Ashley.

Author Hector Cheyney, a veteran of turning out the five-a-week, obtained the name by his favorite naming device: he borrowed first and last names from two acquaintances.

Naming TV and radio characters—particularly the unsavory ones—is a touchy business. Although rarely—if ever—does an irate viewer or listener call up to complain that somebody is using his—or her—name for a hero or heroine. Networks occasionally get ters that happened after they lived, so we'll stick to broad, general subjects," the emcee added. "The speeches will be authentic, though we'll have to put in some connecting phrases like, 'I disagree with you, I think. . . .'"

Allen admitted that introduction of serious material in a comedy show is not calculated to improve his rating. "I would guess that when we first try 'Meeting of Minds,' we might pick up a few viewers through curiosity," he observed. "But I would suppose that we might lose a point or two when we do it again."

"That doesn't bother me. This is something I'm very interested in, and I feel that the national climate is such that people are ready for it."

complaints when quite by chance the name of a real person is appended to a reprobate.

Therefore, special pains are taken to avoid trouble. At one time, two of the biggest advertising agencies in New York—whose clients sponsored several series—obtained signed permission from all their employees to borrow their names as needed for characters.

Another author borrowed the names of network employees and executives. One important official became accustomed to hearing his name used for the master crook in a cops-and-robbers series.

Other name-resources for authors are the U.S. Postal Guide—take two place names, like Charlotte and Springfield, combine them and lo, it becomes "the other woman." Writers also pick names out of the telephone book—first names from one part, last names from another.

Make Check-Ups One of the more dangerous areas is naming stores or restaurants if they are to be used as—for instance—the hangout of the thieves or a distribution point for the dope peddlers.

Checks are made to ascertain there is not a real store with a similar name if a real community, like New York or San Francisco, is used for background. But in TV and radio series many localities are never really identified, so occasionally someone complains.

"In a country this size, it is impossible always to avoid the use of a real person's name," says Stockton Heifrich, who checks NBC scripts. "But we receive surprisingly few complaints about this. Once a woman did call up and complain that we were poking fun at her name when a character

Kerosene Fuel for Poor Until It Turned Red

BY HARRY GOLDEN

There was no gas in our neighborhood until a round 1900. Before that, the streets were lit by tapers or just stayed dark. It wasn't until 1910, really, that gas pipes had snaked their way into apartments and provided a fuel for light, heat and cooking.

Up to that time, everyone made do with kerosene. Kids did their homework by kerosene lamps and the apartment was heated by a coal or wood stove in the kitchen over which the mother of the house did all her cooking, too.

2 Gallon Cans

When gas light was introduced, a new social distinction came with it. The rich could afford gas as well as the new coal furnace, the poor had only kerosene. Kerosene has a distinctive odor. The poor people who rode the trolleys and the street cars reeked of it, the well-to-do did not.

The kerosene peddlers used to travel through the streets hawking their wares from a small wagon on the back of which rested the large kerosene drum. People trotted down from the top floors of the tenements with a 2-gallon can and the peddler filled it for 8 cents a gallon. Most people remarked that something "was malarkey." It turned out her name sounded like "Malarkey." And then there are sometimes complaints about names with ethnic inferences, but we try to be careful.

ple could not afford five gallons at a clip so they had to run downstairs every other day. Mothers used to warn their children to keep a sharp lookout for the kerosene peddler on Thursdays—else there was no light for the end of the Sabbath at sundown Saturday.

Even today there are thousands of homes in New York City, Baltimore and Boston which employ kerosene as their basic fuel. Kerosene heaters are sometimes dangerous. If kerosene fumes collect through negligence, the heater will explode when a match is lit.

The most exciting thing that happened on the lower east side was the invention of red kerosene. The legend surrounding this invention is that one of the Italian peddlers inadvertently dropped his red bandana into his drum of wholesale kerosene. The bandana's dye turned the kerosene red. To have discarded that drum would have meant a week's wages, so the peddler took a chance and went out to hawk his red kerosene.

Cost Penny More

When his customers commented on its color, he explained that red kerosene was a new process recently invented by the Standard Oil company. It would burn longer and brighter. He also had the forethought to tell his customers it cost a penny more.

Red kerosene had overnight popularity. Within a week, you couldn't give away colorless kerosene.

I tried to verify this old legend at the Standard Oil company. A letter I wrote them received no answer. I suppose one Department head transferred the letter to another until now it is in Saudi Arabia.

The new fuels are safer and much more clean. Electricity undoubtedly is more economical. But the truth of the matter is that no neon or electric light will ever equal the soft glow of a Rochester kerosene lamp for reading. The Rochester casts the softest reading light in the world. - Accordion-action design to flex at any angle.
- Double-size cup blasts double pressure directly at obstruction.
- Tapered suction-grooved tail gives air-tight fit.
- Pile rail guides plunger to dead center of drain—skid around.

Ordinary plungers just don't seat properly. They permit compressed air, water and sludge to splash back. Thus you not only have a mess, but you lose the very pressure you need to clear the obstruction.

With "Toilaflex," expressly designed for toilets, no air, water or sludge can escape. This unique, patented plunger assures a snug, air-tight fit in any toilet trap, regardless of irregular shape or size.

"Toilaflex" has a powerful double-sized cup that blasts more than twice the amount of compressed air directly at the obstruction. The full pressure plows through the clogging mass and swishes it down. Can't miss!

Your toilet could overflow tomorrow. With a "Toilaflex" in your home there's no problem, no mess, no expense; you clear your toilet with ease, in a jiffy.

Gal Makes Sick Call, Finds She Isn't Only One in His Life

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 24, a green-eyed red head, and very mixed up. Six months ago I fell in love with an executive. He was strangely evasive about where he lived but I never thought much about it. Yesterday he phoned to say he had a bad case of flu and could not make our date. I decided to surprise him with some hot chicken soup. I got his address from his boss. Rick was sick all right, and he became a lot sicker when he saw me at his door. At first he said he was too ill to let me in, but I insisted. The first thing I noticed was a frilly robe on the back of a chair, then some satin bedroom slippers plus a woman's handbag and gloves. I asked for an explanation. He told me a young girl he'd known in Peoria was out of work and friendless. She couldn't pay her rent so he let her move in for a few weeks. He swore there was nothing between them and begged me to have faith in him. Would you?—Red.
Dear Red: Would I what? Believe he's playing house mother to a friendless girl from Peoria? No.
If your boy friend wanted to be a junior-grade philanthropist he could have advanced the girl some rent money—or asked a woman friend to take her in for a few weeks.

DEAR ANN: My husband and I moved into his mother's home when we married nine years ago. His mother has been employed all this time. We paid rent and took care of the utility bills. Now his mother is retiring from her job and wants to sell us her home. She thinks she should live with us for nothing. She'll be getting a pension so it's not as if she were penniless. My husband feels this is perfectly all right. I say it isn't fair. She has three daughters besides this son—Disgusted.
Dear Disgusted: Your signature tells me more than your letter. More important than whether or not your mother-in-law should pay is the fact that you have a poor relationship with her and therefore you shouldn't live together under any conditions. It would be far better if your mother-in-law could get an apartment alone. I recommend this even if it means all four children must pitch in to supplement the pension.
DEAR ANN: You helped me several months ago so I'm turning to you again. I'm so happy I followed your advice because now I realize how right you were. I'm the girl with the withered left arm who wanted to wear my engagement ring on my crippled hand. You advised me to wear the ring on the other hand. You even explained why I wanted to wear the ring on my left hand. And you were right. I was subconsciously flaunting my deformity to show people I could get a wonderful fellow in spite of my handicap. Now I'm making plans for the wedding. I've always wanted to wear a bridal gown, but perhaps I shouldn't because of my arm. Do you think if I carried a large bouquet it would help? Please tell me what to do. I was wrong before and I may be wrong again.—S. C.
Dear S. C.: By all means wear a bridal gown and carry a large bouquet. And my heartiest congratulations. (Copyright 1960)

Italian Fashions Fail To Impress Buyers

BY ALLYN MOSS
Florence, Italy—Buyers packed their bags Saturday and headed for Paris without any starry-eyed or startling impressions from Italian high fashion's 1960 spring-summer show.

Ten days of the best that Italy's top designers could offer here and in Rome emphasized these features: tunics, accentuated waistlines, many pleats and many kinds of prints.

Some American buyers, in fact, indicated they had been most attracted by the more simple offerings. For example, Mrs. Hannah Troy, a New York buyer, said:

Prefers Simplicity
"I'm a bread and butter girl. I'm down to earth. Those ultra modes don't cut ice back home. I am here to dress Miss America."

Then, indicating the collections of moderate designers who had shown creations less severe than some of the more high fashion houses, she said: "That is the way she wants to look."

Like a good many buyers, Mrs. Troy believes American women go for Italian fashions because they combine elegance and casual chic. Some buyers also indicated that where any major change in the silhouette was advocated they would prefer to get the word and take their cue in Paris, rather than in Florence or Rome.

However, there was nothing very drastic either here or in the Rome presentations which preceded the Florence show. No 'Sales' Problems
But high fashion designers Capucci, Fabiani, Simonetta and Schuberth said they were having no commercial problems. Simonetta said "I found a long line of buyers at my door the morning after I showed."

Schuberth said he had never had such a success, and Capucci said he had sold 15 models. Buyers were paying from $200 to $750 a model. German buyers, by far the biggest group present at Florence, also indicated enthusiasm about less extreme models. Many of them had passed up the Rome showings, where Fontana caught buyers' interest by using silks by Liberty of London. These used floral designs of 70 years ago. Fontana supplied the color schemes.

As the Italian fashion shows ended here, Giovanni Battista Georgini, impresario of the well organized Florence venture, announced that Italian fabric manufacturers had decided to back the Florence show and give first choice of their fabrics to Italian designers instead of to Parisians.

Some fashion circles saw in this a victory for Florence in its 9-year fight with Rome for fashion supremacy.

In Good Taste

Objects to Use of Her First Name

BY EMILY POST
Dear Mrs. Post: My son, an only child, was married about seven months ago. Since I always wanted a daughter, I am so very happy over this marriage and hold the deepest love for my daughter-in-law who is a very lovely person. However, I have one complaint and that is that my daughter-in-law calls me by my first name. This hurts me very much. I would like to know how I can tactfully tell her that I do not like being called by my first name and ask her to call me Mom as my son does.

Answer: Explain to her how much you have always wanted a daughter and the pleasure it would give you to have her call you Mom.

Groom's Relatives
Dear Mrs. Post: Except for the groom's immediate family, his relatives and many of his friends will be strangers to my husband and me. When they arrive at the reception, how shall I greet them, and are they supposed to be introduced to everyone else?

Answer: I agree with you. Showers should be given by friends and not by members of the immediate family.

Mrs. Post offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette. If you would like to have her leaflet E-28, entitled, "Housewarming and Surprise Reception," send 10 cents in coin to Dept. E. P., care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Brazil Regrets Ignoring United State's Housewife

Rio de Janeiro — Time was when Brazilians didn't think highly of either American housewives or U. S. coffee tastes. Their opinion on coffee hasn't changed. One Brazilian coffee grower says, "North Americans drink potato water and call it coffee." But Brazil's feeling on U. S. housewives has done an about face. Brazilians have learned the hard way not to underestimate that feminine power. Says M. Azorem Costa, a leading Brazilian coffee exporter: "I can say one thing for the United States. When the housewife speaks, everybody jumps. The trouble was we didn't hear the word of the woman is often ignored." It all goes back to the great U. S. coffee crisis in 1949, when coffee on the grocer's shelf soared to more than a dollar a pound. Shortage? Far from it. Costa, who's been in the trade 48 years, explains: "Coffee Booms We had a coffee boom here and exported more than 12 million bags of 132 pounds each to the United States. "After that we priced ourselves right out of the market. We raised our prices and housewives revolted. They bought instant coffee and tea." The American coffee industry took the hint. Looking for cheaper coffee to pacify the housewife, importers turned to Africa. Now, both Brazilian exports — and prices — are down. "We didn't take the hint," says Costa. Brazilians have been hit hard by the African coffee trade and they can't understand it. That's because they like coffee strong, black and heavily sugared. The coffee Americans drink is blended with an African grade. Brazilians consider tasteless. Despite this opinion, Africa has become Brazil's biggest competitor in the coffee market. Although Brazil lowered its prices, there are still these differences at wholesale: Top grades of Brazilian coffee sell in New York for 37 cents a pound. High grades of Colombian coffee are 43 cents. African grades run from 23 cents to 26 cents.

Competition Africa's annual coffee production is approaching 10 million bags and Brazil's current harvest is estimated at 30 million. With world production at some 66 million bags and consumption only 37 million, that's a lot of coffee left over. Costa says the solution is for Brazilians to become better salesmen. Brazil, combating the world for buyers for its current 25 million bag surplus, recently sold a quantity of coffee to the Soviet Union. It also is trying to sell to tea-drinking Japan. "We should give it away to let people in other parts of the world see how good it is," Costa says. "Sooner or later, they may want to buy it — then we'll be back in business again."

Found Storage Space Under Window

The best laid plans for bedrooms 1960 spread storage accommodation smoothly across any span of wall—even the wall with a window on it with furniture like this. The cedar lined blanket chest could locate at the end of a bed, but it's designed to line up snugly between taller drawer chests just in case it could make use of the often wasted space under a window. And with a cushion for the top and pillows, the blanket chest is a smart bench. Designer Sanford Wallach also introduced another appealing idea in the letter rack mirrors, paired over the taller chests. Posts on both of the framed mirror notch to hold letters and a show of souvenirs, too, when the mirrors hang in a teenager's room. The mirrors match the walnut of the furniture, which includes other space-fitting chest sizes along with headboards, a desk and special shelf and drawer units to hang on the wall. Mrs. F. B. "My 17'x7' bedroom must take two twin size beds and two dressers that are 44 inches long. Enclosed is a diagram of the room. Will you please help me with the placing of this furniture?" Your diagram indicates on what wall each window, door and radiator is located, but does not show their widths or the wall widths beyond and between them. The best furniture arrangement must be made from a floor plan that shows complete information, but you can solve the problem yourself if you'll make a very accurate floor plan, with every measurement taken and everything exactly located, then make paper cut-outs to represent the furniture that are equally accurate and in perfect scale to the floor plan. You simply move the paper furniture on the paper floor to find the best way to locate the real thing. Squared paper and ready-made cut-outs make this easiest, and they come with my Furniture Arrangement Kit, which you can get by sending 50 cents and your request to me at this newspaper. The Kit includes 126 furniture cut-outs, instructions and special suggestions, too. Mrs. V. C. "We have a built-in seat in an L shape in our dinette which adjoins the kitchen. The upholstery cover is yellow grained plastic and the walls are white to match the kitchen, where I have yellow curtains and accessories. The dinette doesn't seem to be bright enough, and I am wondering what color to paint the walls." Since there probably isn't much wall area in the dinette, you might choose paint in any bright color that you like with yellow and white. Or you might like the effect of patterns much better with all the

Select White Furnishings With Eye to Washability

BY VIVIAN BROWN

Why not furnish your home in white? Time was when Hollywood movie settings were the envy of women from Maine street to Park avenue. The plush white rugs, gleaming white satin draperies and bed covers and shimmering upholstery fabrics made women drool. But nowadays you can have white and get it dirty, too. It's easily put back into shape, no more effort in upkeep than drab colored furnishings. Bought with the idea that they "don't show the dirt." The trend to white is made possible by new fibers and textured fabrics that insure durability, and are washed easily. Many Tricks There are many tricks in the use of white. Television and movie actress Fran Lee combines bright white and off white with dramatic red and black accessories for striking effects. All the white accessories were chosen with cleanliness in mind. Snowy Parisian marble lamps lift right out of their brass bases so they can be dunked in warm suds in the kitchen sink. She removes cords which bind them to their electrical parts, washes them, pours ammonia over them, then sponges them off with more suds. The white lamp shades are put into kitchen sink suds, although she cautions that "shades should be rinsed quickly and metal frames dried at once to avoid rust." She hangs each shade with string over the bathtub to drip dry. White cotton damask slipcovers with fringed welting are put into the washing machine, and put on the furniture while they are still damp. They dry plain colors, and choose a wallpaper that adds other colors to yellow and white.

smoothly, never need ironing. The whiteness of the sofas is emphasized by the dramatic lipstick red and black corduroy pillows, covered with hand-day zip-on covers for easier washing. Washable Fabrics Draperies of gold and white form the backdrop for the large living room couch, and even though they cover a wide expanse they find their way into the sink for their sudsing. The draperies were purchased in narrow panels, easier to pull along the traverse rod, remove and wash. Large cumbersome panels take more intense servicing. After swishing each panel through soap or detergent suds, the draperies are rinsed, lifted from the water when still dripping, rehung wet, placing several towels or newspapers on the floor to catch the dripping water. The cleaning of a white rug can be a very successful operation if your own home. Prepare the suds and the vehicle to be used—vacuum cleaner shampoo attachment or whatever, and do a small area at a time. Choose a dry, sunny day, and a spot that is near an electric outlet. (The porch light socket may be used.) If the rug is not too large it may be brought indoors after shampooing to dry. It is better if the rug can dry outdoors, however, in the sun.

Bat-Wing Sleeves, Prints Highlight Paris Fashions

BY NADEANE WALKER Orange and rose hues vied with sober navy, beiges and greige (gray beige), with flashes of black and white. Griffe belted most waistlines about an inch below normal, with cloth or patent leather belts that slipped through slide slots and dipped sharply in the back. A few of these were breathless, but most were loose floating slightly gathered skirt panel hung down the front and back of a few. Deep bat-wing sleeves on coats and jackets and many from the throat and dipped in flat-pleated skirts highlighted a deep "V" front. But many the first spring collection, svelte, sleeveless sheaths were collarless, with draped bodices cut either square or high or rounded widely at the neck. Some of these were buttoned all the way down the front or back. Big Collars According to pre-opening hints, others may be tired of big collars but Griffe is still giving them a ride. Lightweight wool crepes and both floral and abstract printed silks make most of his day collection. Hoods attached to afternoon dresses can be dropped for a draped collar effect, or worn up with matching silk print sheath coat. There are some reversible wool tweed coats over dresses matching one side of the coat. Wispy chiffon afternoon prints are sometimes pouched.

For cocktail and theater wear, a dove-grey satin with very low decolletage was starred all over with gold sequins which glimmered through a black lace coat. Long Jackets Griffe's suit jackets are fairly long, at least to the middle of the hip. A few are piped in contrasting color. His wide-brimmed straw hats have veiling tied over the hat and under the chin, like grandma's motoring bonnet. Most costume necklaces, of pearls or colored crystals, strike a happy medium between Dior's dog collars and Chanel's "skipping ropes."

There are ballerina dance dresses, tiny waisted and full skirted, and a great many ankle length slim formals, either in silk print (some giant florals) or embroidered satin. Very thin straps, like shoe-laces, replace the strapless top and often they are beaded.

The designer likes white lace over a pink foundation, or black net over pink. There are some very draped chiffon formals with fichu (shawl) collars caught in at the bust and falling in flaring panels to the floor. Patou will hold the second opening this afternoon, with Cardin showing tonight.

This Young Miss Previews what's new for the young set this spring. The dress is pure white piquette with blooming American Beauty roses and requires no ironing.

DESIGNER PATTERN

Ronald Paterson of London

One of London's most creative designers, Ronald Paterson, does a suit of simple lines but an unusual look. The 45 inch material for two piece double breasted jacket has a wide collar, sloped shoulders, and an interesting sleeve that can be made in either of two ways. One is gathered above the elbow and swells out in the bell shape that is big news this season. The other is shorter and ends in a cuff to match the wire band at the bottom of the

Stevens Point — An exhaustive study of Wolf river drainage problems is planned this year, W. E. Scott, conservation congress water committee liaison, said.

At a committee meeting, Scott said Saturday the joint WSD-University of Wisconsin study will be an example for future drainage studies.

The proposed study was requested by the Wolf River Improvement association which asked for a system of dams on the river, Scott said.

Investigations will deal with fish, drainage, diversion and all phases of the problem. A public meeting in the Wolf river area is planned. Wolf river residents can voice opinions and tell problems at that time.

This Double Shows Good Support

U.S. Masters Team Champion

NORTH'S double says: "Partner, I have good support for each of the unbid suits and I am necessarily short in the enemy's suit. Bid your best suit and don't worry."

The double should promise at least 13 points (high cards plus distribution) in support of partner's best suit. The strength may run up to slightly more than 20 points.

Simple Response

South has a very weak hand and must make a simple (non-jump) response. It would not be criminal to bid one diamond, but South's preferred response is one spade.

The takeout double is usually meant as a move in the direction of game and therefore should promise good support for at least one major suit. When the responder has a choice, therefore, he should go slightly out of his way to bid a major rather than a minor suit.

North passes the response of one spade. He knows that the simple response shows 0 to 8 points. (As we will see in later articles this week, South would take stronger action if he had more than 2 points.)

North counts his own points: four for the ace, three for each king, two for the queen, and one for each jack. The total is 14 points in high cards. He adds one point for the doubleton, for a total value of 15 points. Even if South has seven or eight points, the combined count is not enough for game.

Even though bidding continues, North and South know they are not heading toward game. They stop at a safe and sane part score in spades. South should win nine tricks, losing one spade, one diamond, and two clubs.

The opening bid, at your left, is one club. Partner doubles, and the next player passes. You hold: S-A 10 4, H-7 6 4 3, D-8 7 3, C-A 10 6. What do you say?

Answer: Bid one heart. You have eight points, maximum value for a simple response.

UW Committee Lists Plans

Study Group to Make Report in 30 Days To Green Bay

Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay—A special city-county committee to study plans for a new University of Wisconsin extension center for the Green Bay area adopted an ambitious program Saturday to be carried out in the next 30 days.

The group was instructed to report within 30 days to the county board on such things as recommendations on site, architect and estimated cost. They met with Dr. Roman Zorn, Extension center director.

Slated for study during the next two weeks include:

A trip Wednesday to Wausau and Menasha to study buildings just constructed or now in the construction stage, an invitation for interested persons to submit letters, to be addressed to the extension center, on proposed locations, tours of eight proposed sites, a meeting with a University of Wisconsin architect and a study of what could be expected from the UW regarding equipment, staff and future plans for the center.

The committee agreed to set up a guide to be used in the study of sites. It will include details on the size of the tract of land plus parking arrangements, accessibility to highways and streets, public transportation, utilities, location on geographic and population basis, the environment of the area—and price.

While considering size of the building, Dr. Zorn asked the committee to include classrooms, laboratory space, student lounge, study rooms for instructors, physical education facilities and the adult extension service program.

Report Theft of Wallets, Purses

The theft of two wallets and four French purses from Jay-Jay's Card and Gift shop, 125 W. College avenue, was reported to Appleton police Saturday by Mrs. Nell Engel, store manager.

The complaint said the merchandise was valued at $32.75. Mrs. Engel told police the wallets and purses were on a display rack near the door. She believed they were taken between 2 and 2:30 p. m. Saturday.

"And You Never Knew," a play given by the Mental Health association, will be presented at the James Madison school PTA meeting at 8 p.m. Jan. 27. Rehearsing from left are Mrs. E. Gerald Thiel, Miss Helen Dixon and Robert L. Belle, all of Appleton. The drama treats the relationships of adolescents and parents and will be discussed by the PTA after the presentation.

Power Loss Shuts Down Iron Works

City Crew Cuts Cable Digging For Fence Hole

Power was cut at the Valley Iron Works company at 10:02 a. m. today when city crews severed a 4,160-volt cable while digging a hole for a support for an iron fence on S. Island street.

It was the first time in the firm's 60-year history it was forced to close down during the day. A spokesman for the firm said there was some damage caused when the electrically-controlled heating units went out.

The iron fence was to replace an old wooden barrier that was sagging with age and threatening to fall into the tailrace in back of the Appleton Woolen mills.

Escaped Injury

Alfred Neuenfeldt, of the city crew, was operating the compressor drill when the power cable was struck. A shower of sparks followed but Neuenfeldt escaped injury.

Wisconsin Michigan Power company crews were summoned immediately and an overhead line is to be installed as an emergency measure.

Clocks at the iron works stopped at 10:02. The cupolas and other machinery were put out of commission and factory hands started checking out of the plant by 10:06. Office help was sent home about noon as the unheated building became too cold.

2 Injured in Three Accidents Over Weekend

Little Chute Man Says Car Forced Off Highway 96

Two persons were injured and a car was demolished in three accidents investigated over the weekend by Outagamie county police.

John W. McCormick, 22, of 927 E. Park avenue, Little Chute, suffered cuts and bruises when his car ran over a mailbox and struck a tree on Highway 96 one-quarter of a mile east of French road Sunday night.

McCormick told police he was driving west on 96 when his car was forced off the road by an oncoming vehicle. His car was demolished when it struck a tree at 3406 E. Wisconsin avenue. McCormick was taken to Kaukauna Community hospital in a Larry ambulance.

Bump on Head

Tom Brunette, 18, Milwaukee, received a bump on the head when the car in which he was riding struck the rear of another car shortly before midnight Saturday in the town of Oneida.

A car driven by Raymond H. Smith, 18, route 1, Oneida, was turning left into a driveway when it was struck by one driven by Antone Brunette, 21, Milwaukee. Other passengers in the Brunette car were Janice Cornelius and Janice Doxtater, both of route 2, West DePere.

A parked car owned by Middlebury Union High school senior class play, "Our Town," was to go on, Robert's mother died at Porter Hospital.

But when the curtain went himself a trouper in the best Broadway tradition. Robert was there in his role A few hours before the Mid-

Richard L. Horn, 19, route 2, Kaukauna, was damaged when it was struck Sunday night by a car driven by Richard P. Hebert, 24, 7281 Madison street, Little Chute. The car was parked near the Little Chicago tavern in the town of Buchanan.

County police said Hebert did not stop at the accident scene. He was arrested later in Kaukauna for a traffic violation.

Soil Bank Fine To be Returned

Memphis, Tenn. — A federal judge has ruled that the $1,368.81 fine imposed on a farmer for grazing his cattle on forbidden soil bank land must be returned.

T. J. White of Saltillo, Tenn., contended the cattle were in the forbidden field due to an emergency and Dist. Judge M. S. Boyd agreed in a suit heard yesterday.

White said lightning toppled a tree onto his pasture fence. When he rounded up his 40 missing cattle he put them in to the soil bank field until the fence was repaired.

When county authorities heard the cattle had grazed the bank's land they assessed White $90 and directed that he reseed the area. Then state soil bank officials levied the civil penalty.

The soil bank is a government program aimed at cutting overproduction of crops. A farmer is paid for letting the land lie idle. It cannot be used for any farm purpose.

Mothers' Club Makes Man Honorary Member

Columbus, Ohio — Air Force T/Sgt. H. T. Stow, stationed at Lockbourne Air Force Base here, is an honorary mother.

When he was on recruiting duty at Davenport, Iowa, in 1955 Stow helped mothers and wives of Air Force men from nearby Clinton to set up a local chapter of the Air Force mothers' club. For his help, the ladies voted to make him an honorary mother in the club.

Planner Backs Franklin St. For Extension

Would Provide More Orderly Growth, Officials Told

The planner who envisions a civic center in Jones park also endorses the proposed Franklin street extension across the Packard street dump.

Ralph J. Stephenson, consultant for the H. C. Prange company store construction, told city officials and chamber of commerce leaders Thursday at Butte des Morts he once thought Washington street would be the one to extend westward from Division street.

Provide Depth
He now believes Franklin street is better because it will permit more orderly growth of the downtown business core, he said in reply to a question.

Franklin street as an east-west route would give the business core depth, preventing development along a stretched out College avenue, he said.

The more compact the business district, the less walking distance for the shopping public, the Detroit planner believes.

Stephenson also cited the advantages of increased property values. If Washington street becomes the east-west route, property on that street will be of the lowest value in the central core, but if Franklin street is made the carrier, not only will Washington street property be more valuable, but so will property on Franklin itself.

Seek Planner's View
A Franklin street route would permit parking on the peripheral street. Cars would be kept out of the already congested area more effectively, he said.

City aldermen Wednesday voted 12-6 to send the problem to the regional planning commission for the commission's planner to pick which of the two routes would be best.

venture, they were turned down because "young women didn't belong in the business world," Miss Geenen recalled in 1958. But they persevered, and "around St. Patrick's day in 1896" opened a 1-room shop in the block east of the present department store.

"Little of Everything"

Miss Geenen stated their first merchandise was "a little bit of everything," and the store was stocked so lightly that the sisters hung a curtain dividing the area into two rooms, so the single room would not appear bare.

Their first merchandise was mainly dry goods. "Calicos and flannels sold at 5 cents a yard and a woman could make a dress for less than a dollar."

Dina, who was 30 in 1896, had been bookkeeper before the store opened. Anna, about 26, was a clerk, and Minnie was a dressmaker.

Pooling their experiences, the three sisters worked 12 hours a day, six days a week, establishing their business as an integral part of the Appleton scene before 10 years elapsed. By 1910, they had expanded the store to its present size.

Miss Geenen was active in store business until about 18 years ago. She served on the board of directors until her death. The store now is operated by her nephew, Paul Geenen, president and manager.

She was a charter member of the Catholic Daughters of America.

40 et 8 Requested To Cut 'White Only' Clause

Janesville — The executive committee of the Wisconsin department of the American Legion Saturday endorsed the national legion's demand that the 40 et 8 Society remove the "white only" membership clause from its constitution.

A spokesman for the fun-making 40 et 8, which also held its mid-winter meeting here Saturday, said "We have nothing to say."

Last month the legion's national commander ordered the 39-year association of the two groups ended until the 40 et 8 removes the controversial clause.

Robert G. Wilkie, Wisconsin department adjutant, said, "In Wisconsin, our relations will continue as in the past. The future depends upon the course of action taken by the 40 et 8 at its national promenade this summer."

Now Science Stops Useless* Coughing with a Tiny Tablet and a sip of water!

Controls nerves that control coughing due to colds and excessive smoking. Helps break up bronchial congestion — raises phlegm.

NEW YORK, N. Y. (Special) A major breakthrough in cough control is now announced with the introduction to the public of a new anti-cough tablet. It's a tiny tablet...to be taken with a sip of water. Working through the bloodstream, this remarkable tablet stops useless coughing up to 6 full hours. Called DONDRIIL Anti-Cough Tablets, this entirely new concept in cough control is now available without prescription. The astonishing relief offered by DONDRIIL is made possible by a combination of three great medicines...a unique antitussive, a medically-proven decongestant and an exclusive antihistamine. DONDRIIL has twice the effectiveness of codeine, yet is non-narcotic. Get DONDRIIL Anti-Cough Tablets. Money back if not satisfied. DONDRIIL is a trademark.

Authenticity of Anne Frank Diary Will Be Checked

Kiel, Germany — A Kiel court has asked two experts to check the authenticity of the famed diary of Anne Frank, the Jewish girl who died in a Nazi concentration camp after hiding for months with her family in an Amsterdam attic. State justice authorities said a handwriting expert will check whether the entries in the diary actually were made by the girl and a translation expert will examine their translation from Dutch into German.

A spokesman said the experts findings are expected to be ready by the end of March, to be used as evidence in the trial of Lotar Stielau, a high school teacher and district leader of the extreme right-wing German reich party. Stielau was suspended from his job after writing more than a year ago in a school newspaper that "the forged diaries of Eva Braun and the Queen of England and the not much more authentic one of Anne Frank have yielded several million marks for those who profited from the German defeat but also have rendered us (the Germans) more sensible." Anne's father, Otto Frank, filed a complaint against Stielau for making anti-Jewish remarks, slander and libeling the memory of dead persons. The trial is expected in April.

Hoffa Seeks Nationwide Truck Pact

called the candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination a millionaire playboy who doesn't have a thing in common with a truck driver.

The labor leader also renewed a challenge to Rep. John F. Byrnes, Green Bay, to meet him in a television debate on the Landrum-Griffin labor act of 1959, the most destructive law ever passed against working people. Hoffa said he would buy the air time out of his pocket. He said he wanted the Green Bay Republican to explain forcing a union man to be a strike breaker and pass through a picket line. He also extended the debate invitation to Sen. William Proxmire. Hoffa claimed the Wisconsin Democrat spoke for the bill in committee, then voted against his convictions on the floor.

"The phony liberals," Hoffa said, "are worse than the reactionaries. The reactionaries you watch, but phony liberals you don't watch until you're stabbed to death."

Teamsters 'United'

In spite of anti-labor legislation and 21 years of "harrassment" by the McClellan senate committee, Hoffa said Teamsters are more united than ever. He said there was not a single court conviction on 19 indictments resulting from the senate investigation of Teamster affairs.

The meeting was called to consider granting a charter to some 325 Teamster members in the Mauston area, a driver relay point on the heavily-traveled Chicago to Minneapolis-St. Paul route. Mauston area drivers on the 375-mile run are affiliated individually with Teamster locals in Chicago, Minneapolis or St. Paul. Members have complained it is difficult to attend meetings. Hoffa said he appreciates the desire for "home rule" but said it would be a mistake for the mid-point drivers to establish their own local. He pointed out with completion of Interstate Highway 90 paralleling the present route, the Chicago - Twin Cities route may be reduced to a single 10-hour run and there would be no need for the present relay point.

Officials of the three locals

Asthma Formula Prescribed Most By Doctors—Available Now Without Prescription

Stops Attacks in Minutes... Relief Lasts for Hours!

New York, N.Y. (Special)—The asthma formula prescribed more than any other by doctors for their private patients is now available to asthma sufferers without prescription. Medical tests proved this formula stops asthma attacks in minutes and gives hours of freedom from recurrence of painful asthma spasms. This formula is so effective that it is the physicians' leading asthma prescription—so safe that now it can be sold without prescription—in tiny tablets called Primatene-B.

present announced it could be arranged to hold union meetings in the Mauston-New Lisbon area every 90 days. A unanimous vote was cast to continue the present setup. In a press conference before his talk, Hoffa said the union will have "no role at all" in Sen. Kennedy's bid for votes in the early Wisconsin Democratic presidential primary April 5. He said it is "up to the locals of the state" whether voluntary contributions will be solicited.

Emmett E. Terry, Green Bay, president of Wisconsin Joint Council 39 and editor of the Wisconsin Teamster, said later that state locals would carry out a register and vote campaign. He said voluntary member contributions probably would go to congressional and state legislative campaigns and not into the presidential primary.

Organize Office Men

Hoffa told reporters expulsion from the AFL-CIO in December, 1957, had not hurt the Teamsters. He said Teamsters have saved $2.5 million by not having to affiliate with state and regional organizations. This money, he said, has gone into efforts to organize many fields affiliated with transportation, including 12,000 white collar workers at terminal sites.

The Teamsters, he said, have pacts with 12 other unions not to organize their fields, but otherwise "we reserve the right to organize any non-union worker". According to figures cited in his talk, Teamsters added 40,000 members in November and 80,000 in December. The union has 884 locals and 12,000 fulltime employees including 3,000 fulltime organizers, he said.

Teamster growth has been far ahead of that for general labor movement, according to Hoffa. While American labor has grown 21 per cent since 1946, Teamsters have grown 175 per cent, he claimed.

No Rejoining Overtures

Hoffa said there would come a time when Teamsters might return to the AFL-CIO, but he said the Teamsters would make no overtures to reaffiliate at this time. "They are going to have to realize the Landrum-Griffin act is not an anti-Teamster bill but an anti-labor bill."

Entrance to Apartment Proves Fatal for Man

Philadelphia—Several times Willie Brown had locked himself out of his third-floor apartment. But he had always gotten in by going to a window of an adjacent building and jumping four feet to a ledge outside of his own window.

Yesterday Brown, a 21-year-old dockworker, locked himself out again. Police said he jumped and missed, falling 25 feet to the alley below. He was killed.

Walter Wood, Left, clutches his wife's arm and both look in horror at their 3-year-old daughter, Tina Marie, seconds after she was struck and killed by a runaway auto at the Municipal Airport parking lot in Memphis, Tenn. Mrs. Wood, who also was struck by the car, stands in her stocking feet. Her shoes were jarred from her feet by the impact. Wood's other two children are at the right. than three persons, groups of people gathered around the barricaded area and stared grimly at the insurgents who had hoisted tattered French tricolors.

Here and there merchants who shuttered their windows when the rioting broke out last night began to open their stores.

The three Algiers morning daily newspapers—all censored—sold quickly. They printed dispatches reporting minor demonstrations of sympathy in Oran and Constantine.

"Algiers has known the most tragic day of its history," said the Journal d'Alger.

Inside the barricaded area rebellious groups sang a rousing "Marseillaise."

Resembles Armed Camp

The government building on Forum hill, scene of last night's clash, looked like an armed camp. Steel helmeted police and riot squads spread out army rations in the lobbies and corridors.

The Echo d'Alger said in a front page editorial:

"French blood has been spilled climaxing the disillusionment of which we are drinking the bitter chalice for so many years. May God grant that our tears of today be not spilled in vain and that the sacrifice of our dead... be the last. Let it be the sign forever of the French destiny of Algeria."

Alan de Serigny, publisher of the newspaper, took part in yesterday's demonstration.

Leaders of the rebellious Frenchmen, who had counted on army sympathy and support, admitted they were fighting a losing battle. The supreme commander of the French forces in Algeria stood stoutly behind De Gaulle and warned "the mutiny will not win."

A band of several hundred insurgents held out on the grounds of Algiers university in the center of the capital and in the adjacent Rue Michelet for a last-ditch stand after police and troops broke up mobs of demonstrators that swelled to 20,000.

Appeal Ignored

The diehards defied an appeal from De Gaulle to lay down their arms.

There was no indication whether troops would be used in an attempt to flush them out immediately.

Gen. Maurice Challe, supreme French military commander in Algeria, clamped martial law in the capital and imposed censorship on all outgoing news dispatches. There were no reports of trouble outside the city of Algiers.

(The Paris government banned public meetings throughout France and "all manifestations in public places" to prevent demonstrations by supporters of the Algerian right-wingers on the mainland.)

Junta Set Up

The French rightists set up a 3-man junta led by Pierre Lagailarde, a parliament deputy. Wearing the uniform of a reserve paratroop lieutenant, the bearded 6-foot Lagailarde barricaded himself in the university with several hundred youthful followers.

The two others in the junta—Joseph Ortiz, leader of the national French front, and Jacques Susini, leader of right-wing student organizations—seized a corner bank building.

In the bank with Ortiz and Susini were several uniformed officers of the Algerian home guard. They hoisted a red, white and blue tricolor flag in front of their makeshift barricade.

French troops who have been fighting Algerian nationalists in the interior were being rushed to Algiers to help police restore order.

Massu Dismissed

The simmering resentment of European settlers against De Gaulle's Algerian policy was sparked into revolt by his firing of Gen. Jacques Massu as military and civilian commander of the Algiers area.

Massu was the hero of the million French settlers who are determined to keep Algeria French and one of the leaders of the 1958 revolt here that led to the overthrow of the fourth French republic and paved the way for De Gaulle to assume power.

The mutineers this time lacked a leader of Massu's stature and rightwingers were hesitant against the prospect of open fighting with French troops.

Philippe Marais, a deputy in the Algerian parliament, told a reporter:

"This situation has not been provoked by a desire to riot, but by despair. The population cannot retreat unless the

Visit to Rome Very Successful, Adenauer Says

Bonn, Germany—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer came home today from what he described as a very successful visit to Rome.

The 84-year-old German leader reached Rome Wednesday. Italians generally viewed his trip as part of a campaign for support for a firm stand against any compromise on the German question at the forthcoming East-West summit meeting.

German newsmen Saturday quoted members of Adenauer's party as saying there was a tendency among some Italians to make concessions on Germany, perhaps through a separate Berlin solution, as a means of easing tensions with the communist bloc.

But authoritative Italian sources vigorously denied the government of Premier Antonio Segni had ever thought of a Berlin solution separate from the overall German problem. These sources said Segni assured Adenauer of Italy's position.

A joint communique yesterday said Italy and Germany agreed that complete accord among the western allies must be the premise for East-West negotiations, including solution of the Berlin question.

government guarantees a French Algeria."

De Gaulle has refused to budge from his offer to the Algerians of the chance to vote on three alternatives: once the nationalists' revolt is ended—affiliation with France, home rule under France, or independence.

The French settlers fear that they will be outvoted by the nine million Moslems.

Chicago's Police commissioner Timothy J. O'Connor, above, resigned his post Saturday as head of the force of more than 10,000 policemen. Mayor Richard J. Daley announced he had accepted O'Connor's request in the midst of the city's police scandal.

$10,000 Spent in Aid to County Polio Victims

Chapter Owes $1,500 in Unpaid
Bills; 40 Persons Helped

Oshkosh — Winnebago county chapter of the National Foundation during 1959 spent in excess of $10,000 to aid polio victims, William D. Trout, county chapter chairman, reviewed today.

Approximately 40 individuals were helped last year with contributions coming in from the March of Dimes. Last year's donations came to about $24,000, almost half of which stays in the county.

Trout said the chapter had about $1,000 to $1,500 in bills still outstanding which will be paid from collections received during the drive this month. Some of this money will be received in Thursday night's Mothers march throughout the entire county.

The Winnebago county chapter, although collecting more last year than it had to pay out locally, has been indebted to the national chapter for advances in previous years of about $50,000.

The county chapter head said the chapter has a moral obligation to pay back on those advances so that other areas hit by polio may be helped. The advances to the county came during the high incidence of polio in 1955.

Research Aid Twenty-five per cent of the money received goes to the special patient fund for advances to other chapters and a similar amount goes to scientific research and education. The money is not used only for polio research but also to combat arthritis, birth defects and virus diseases.

More money has been spent in Winnebago county in the last 10 years for aid to polio victims than was ever taken in through contributions, Trout mentioned.

The national foundation is urging county chapters to use some of their money received for direct aid to victims of arthritis, birth defects and virus diseases if money is available. The county chapter has not been able to enter those fields with aid because of the polio victims still being helped.

Scholarships The national foundation is continuing its scholarship program started last year with 15 scholarships worth $500 each for persons entering the fields of occupational therapy, physical therapy and medical social work.

Figured on a per capita basis, the national goal of $85 million from the March of Dimes would mean about $47,000 being raised in Winnebago county, Trout commented.

Mother of Two Neenah Men Dies

Neenah — Mrs. John C. Lisk, mother of two Neenah residents, died Sunday morning at Danbury in Burnett county after a short illness.

Funeral services will be Wednesday afternoon at Danbury. Survivors include two sons, Theodore Lisk of 658 Reed street, and John Lisk, 208 Adams street, Neenah.

After Being Rescued from "a gas-filled house that had burst into flames," Mark Nebel, Neenah, was treated for shock, a cut, and a broken leg by members of Boy Scout Troop 3 from St. Thomas Catholic church, Menasha. The exploding house was one of four problems faced by Tri-City Boy Scouts at Plamann park Saturday. A "Yukon Trek" day brought 250 scouts to the park to compete in the winter exercises. The scouts, from left, are Steve Nebel, Neenah, and Bruce Karow and Tom Noble, both of Menasha. In the background are Chris Larsen, left, president of the Valley Scout council, and Arnold Cohodas, Tri-City District chairman.

Parker to Head Part Of Red Cross Drive

1960 Goal $10,117 in Menasha; 1959
Campaign Raised $7,884, $2,300 Short

Menasha — Cola G. Parker, 365 Lake road, has accepted the special gifts chairmanship for the 1960 Menasha Red Cross fund campaign, Drive Chairman Elton Beattie announced today.

Parker was president and board chairman of Kimberly - Clark corporation until his retirement five years ago. He also is a past president of the National Association of Manufacturers.

This year's local Red Cross goal is $10,117, slightly lower than the 1959 goal of $10,156. In 1959, the Red Cross netted $7,884. Miss Carole Quella, executive secretary of the Menasha chapter, said the group's history in the last few years has been to run $2,000 to $3,000 short in its drives.

Because the 1959 drive fell short, she said, the local chapter was forced to curtail some activities, such as home service and projects for the Veterans Administration hospital at Wood.

points on the Red Cross drive — no solicitation is carried on in mills and the local chapter is not a member of the Community Chest.

The Red Cross, locally and nationally, has two "must" functions: armed forces service and disaster relief. Others are "permissive." They include first aid and water safety classes, and the blood program. Part of the local recognition go to the national organization for disaster relief.

No Damage From Blaze At Gilbert's

Papermaking Not
Interrupted by Saturday's Fire

Menasha — Interruption of operations in Gilbert Paper company's rag room as a result of Saturday morning's fire was about an hour long, William Gilbert, vice president, reported today.

Menasha firemen wearing masks extinguished the small but elusive blaze in a rag rotary boiler about 10:10 a.m. Saturday.

Gilbert said the fire evidently started from a spark which may have traveled along a conveyor from a cutter to the boiler. Company employees tried to extinguish it before the fire department arrived, but were driven back by the acrid smoke.

Papermaking operations were not interrupted at all, and no equipment was damaged, Gilbert added. Only a small amount of rag material for Gilbert's bond paper was ruined.

Menasha's three fire trucks and all firemen, including the off-duty shift, were called to the fire, in the east end of the machine building. Water was pumped from the canal near the building.

2 Drivers Forfeit
In Menasha Court

Menasha — Miss Norma Metoxen, 17, 405 Broad street, arrested Saturday afternoon for driving alone without a licensed driver in the car with her, lost her temporary operator's permit for 30 days today when she appeared before Police Justice Arthur J. Ales.

Harold H. Pottier, Jr., 22, 317 Grandview avenue, forfeited $10 and costs today for speeding. He was clocked at 42 m.p.h. on Tayco street Sunday night.

Carl Franzen, 46, 716 S. Park avenue, Neenah, forfeited $15 and costs for inattentive driving. His car went off Lake road the night of Jan. 4 and struck a tree.

Drunken, Disorderly
Conduct Causes Fine

Menasha — Robert Thibaudau, 34, 212 Racine street, was fined $10 and costs Saturday for drunken and disorderly conduct by Police Justice Arthur J. Ales. Thibaudau pleaded guilty.

He was arrested Friday night in a Main street tavern, where he reportedly was using foul language.

Carl Loehning Files Papers For Mayor Post

Fred W. Grupe
Enters Race for County Supervisor

Neenah — Carl E. Loehning, 676 Grove street, today filed his nomination papers for the office of mayor, opposing the incumbent, Chester S. Bell now in his first term.

Loehning served three terms as mayor from 1950 to 1956 and had been an alderman for 10 years.

With the securing of nomination papers for Fred W. Grupe, 109 Law street, for the office of Second ward supervisor on the Winnebago county board, all offices to be voted on at the April 5 election now have a candidate.

Grupe, who is in central planning at Marathon division of American Can company, is seeking the post now held by Allan T. Ekvall who is not seeking election. Ekvall was appointed in October to succeed L. J. Driscoll who had moved from the ward.

Other candidates who have filed Friday and today are Joseph Rine, candidate for Second ward alderman, and David Martin, candidate for Sixth ward alderman. Rine is opposing Ald. Ewald Miller and Martin opposing Ald. Carl Coenen and David G. Shoenig for the council seat.

Tuesday is the last day for filing of nomination papers.

Alter Plans For Falcon Clubhouse

Menasha — Another proposal for building a new clubhouse for the Polish Falcons Athletic Association will be presented Feb. 7 to the groups building committee. Chairman Walter Sokolowski said today.

McMahon Engineering company, Menasha, has been working on three plans for the clubhouse, approved by the members Jan. 10. Estimated cost has run around $65,000. Best parts of the plans will be incorporated into a final plan.

Construction probably will start in April, after drawings and specifications are complete and approved by the building committee and bids invited and contracts let.

The present clubhouse's from section will be razed and the new portion at 544 Fourth street constructed, while the bar and rear portion of the building still will be usable. From the new clubhouse's front section, to include the bar, is complete, the rear section will be razed and the new rear building section constructed.

Pleads Innocent Of Drunken Driving

Menasha — Duane F. Rohloff, 29, 202 Bond street, Neenah, pleaded innocent to two charges Saturday in Police Justice Arthur J. Ales' court. Trial was set for 9:45 a.m. Wednesday.

Rohloff is charged with drunken driving and driving without an operator's permit. Menasha police said a check with the motor vehicle department showed that Rohloff's driver's license was revoked for one year on April 4, 1958, and has not been reinstated.

Police said Rohloff was found in his car on Sixth street about 11:30 p.m. Friday, slumped over the steering wheel. The engine was running and the radio playing, they reported.

March 11 Set As Winneconne Caucus Date

Nominations to be Made for Two Posts On Village Board

Winneconne — The annual village caucus has been set by the village board for 7.30 p.m. on Friday, March 11, at the Winneconne High school. Terms expiring are those of L. J. Campbell and Ernest Glasshoff.

The board accepted the resignation of Clarence Heath as village policeman. Heath, who served five years, cited health as the reason for his resignation. George Schneider, village clerk, was instructed to advertise for a replacement.

Edgar Bartelt was rehired as head bridgetender again and a substitute and two other bridgetenders will be named later.

Building Permits
Assessor George Mader reported 41 building permits were issued in 1959 for a total of $232,000 in construction. Nine new homes worth $103,000 were authorized along with five garages and boat-houses and remodeling of 16 homes.

The other permits were for commercial construction and the new fire station and village hall remodeling.

Edward Ehlke, utility supervisor, said the village now has 47,000 feet of water main and 44,000 feet of sewers laid, serving 427 customers as compared to 406 in 1958. The water pumpage totaled 39,693,000 gallons of water last year, an increase of 3 million gallons.

William Goid, village treasurer, reported the village entered the new year with $6,491 in cash on hand and that 18 terms expiring are those of L. J. Campbell and Ernest Glasshoff.

McLean Hits 561 In Mixed League

Menasha — Ken McLean topped a 561 series to pace the Goof-Off Mixed Couples circuit Sunday night at the Mid-Town alleys.

Marvin Robinson rolled a 550 trio. The Sleepy team is in first place with a 231-94 record, topping a pair of challengers by 31 games.

Credit Union Told of Plans

Marathon Menasha
Unit to Build
$65,000 Office

Menasha — Information about the new Marathon Menasha Credit union office, estimated to cost about $65,000, was given members of the credit union at the annual meeting Sunday night at the Elks club.

The new office will be built on property purchased by the credit union at 310 First street in Neenah. Construction is to begin this spring.

All four directors whose terms expire were reelected. They are Robert Dohl, Albert Haack, Carl Hagen and Ralph Schroeder. Also reelected were Luther Meyer and Robert K. Miller on the credit committee.

The directors will meet Feb. 1 to name officers.

About 600 persons attended the business meeting and dance. Ed Muehlenberg, field representative for the state credit union league, spoke to the group of members and their wives and guests.

Two Appleton Youths Fined $10, Costs Each

Neenah — Two Appleton youths, John P. Kobal, 18, 321 S. Pierce avenue, and Thomas R. Marx, 508 S. Story street, were fined $10 and costs each by Police Justice E. P. Arpin this morning after they pleaded guilty of disorderly conduct.

They were arrested at 12:26 a.m. Sunday after police had received two complaints about their driving around properties. A budget of $13,460 for 1960 was adopted. The pastor, Dr. William C. F. Hayes, is in his fifth year of service at the church.

Arps Vacates Order In Foundry Strike

Oshkosh — Circuit Judge J. F. Arps Friday vacated an order to show cause and temporary injunction prohibiting mass picketing at the Neenah Foundry company since the strike was settled Jan. 11.

The order had been secured by attorneys for the foundry against Local 121 of the International Molders and Foundry Workers union but was never served because the strike was settled early on the Monday morning after issuance of the order, signed by Judge Arps on Saturday, Jan. 9.

Rockets Close Strong for 63-59 Triumph Over Jays

Free Throws Turn Tide in Neenah's Favor as Menasha Tallies 5 More Field Goals

BY GEORGE MANCOSKY Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Neenah — If the spacious Neenah high school gymnasium needed a new roof today, it would be no surprise. For it was raised many times by the large crowd attending another classic Neenah-Menasha game Saturday night.

Trailing all of the first and second periods and for much of the third, Neenah came up with spurts of 11 and 10 points to edge the Menashans 63-59. It was the Rockets' third exciting come-from-behind triumph of the month, avenged an earlier equally as thrilling loss to the Jays.

Burton boosted their league record to 4-4 and dropped the visitors to a similar status.

Neenah claimed the victory from the free throw line. It was outgunned by five baskets from the floor but made 23 free throws in 33 attempts. Menasha received only 16 chances and converted nine times.

Three Foul Out

Both clubs suffered losses of key ball players on fouls. Menasha's high-scoring Dave Ristau picked up four in the first half and, after sitting out much of the third period, was saddled with No. 5 with just 10 seconds gone in the fourth. Bill Prange, whose 17 points constituted his best night, departed with six minutes left to play.

For the Rockets, Dick Wilson, a strong rebounder and a reliable scorer, fouled out with 4:27 to play and his team ahead by only three points.

Both clubs had good balanced scoring attacks. Jack Ankersen led all scorers with 18 points on five baskets and eight free throws in nine chances. Dave Burton, a 6-5 sophomore, who, if he continues to improve, could be one of Neenah's greatest, came up with the best game of his young career, adding 13, plus doing well rebounding. Wilson and Paul Felton each had nine points.

Menasha Scoring

Prange had seven baskets and three free throws for Menasha honors. Bill Ritchie added 16 and Jay Drzewiecki hit 12. Ristau, who has been averaging almost 20 points a game, was limited to two field goals, giving him only 12 points in his last three games. Ritchie was the Jays' best rebounder.

In addition to their free throwing, another factor which turned the tide in the Rockets' favor was stronger scoring by the reserves. The two employed by Coach Ole Jorgensen responded with 15 points. The four non-starters used by Coach Lucian Gajewski only made two. Then, too, the hosts took advantage of a couple of poor Menasha passes, converting the miscues into scores.

The Jays dominated things most of the first half. They were off to early 11-3 and 13-4 leads and held a 15-8 advantage at the close of the first quarter.

Chips at Lead

Neenah began to chip at the lead in the second period and with 1:40 left to play had it down to a point at 24-23. Ritchie hit a basket and two free throws and Prange connected on a jump shot for a 30-23 advantage before Felton scored on a jump shot just before the horn for a 30-25 halftime score.

Neenah outscored the Blue and White 6-3 during the opening minutes of the third segment but the Jays had a string of five on Drzewiecki's long shot and a 3-point play by Jim Stenson for a 38-31 score.

Neenah got the difference down to 40-37 and after Drzewiecki's bucket, the hosts really lowered the boom for the last 10 points of this quarter and the first one of the fourth.

Rockets Go Ahead

Forrest Hyde scored on a jump shot for 42-39. Felton made two free throws for a 1-point spread and with 2:36 left, he scored on a jump shot on an inbounds play giving Neenah the lead (43-42) for the first time and, as it turned out, for keeps.

Keeping the pressure on, Tom Smith, who came back in the second half after being forced to leave the floor with a twisted ankle in the first, and Felton hit single free throws and with 28 seconds left, Ankersen tallied a game, was limited to two field goals, giving him only 12 points in his last three games. Ritchie was the Jays' best rebounder.

In addition to their free throwing, another factor which turned the tide in the Rockets' favor was stronger scoring by the reserves. The two employed by Coach Ole Jorgensen responded with 15 points. The four non-starters used by Coach Lucian Gajewski only made two. Then, too, the hosts took advantage of a couple of poor Menasha passes, converting the miscues into scores.

The Jays dominated things most of the first half. They were off to early 11-3 and 13-4 leads and held a 15-8 advantage at the close of the first quarter.

Words Often Misused: Do not say, "From whence did that man come?" Omit "from," as "whence" means "from what place."

Often Mispronounced: Wain-scooting. Pronounce wain-skut-ing, accent on first syllable, and not "wains-coat-ing."

Word Study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day.

Today's Word: neologism; a new word, usage, or expression; the use of a new word or of an old word in a new or different sense. (Pronounce nee-ah-l-oh-jiz-m, accent second syllable). "His speech was well flavored with unusual neologisms."

Jackson, Wyo.—(AP)—Seventy trumpeter swans and 14 cygnets have been counted at the federal wildlife refuge near Jackson this winter.

Ten years ago there were only five swans at the refuge but the number has steadily increased.

In 1925, the trumpeter swan population in the U. S. was down to 73 and the federal government established refuges to protect them.

Khrushchev Knows
As might have been expected, Gen. Power did not overtly challenge the view expressed by Sec. Gates and Gen. Twining. But the challenge is plain enough, if you place Gen. Power's statement of facts against its background of theory. The theory of deterrence, which gives the key to Gen. Power's speech, is not merely accepted by Gen. Power and Sec. Gates and Gen. Twining. It is also accepted by Nikita S. Khrushchev, as he disclosed in the most significant passage of his recent speech to the Supreme Soviet.

In brief, true deterrence depends on careful calculations of "first strike capability" and "counter-strike capability." The United States today has enough nuclear striking power to destroy the Soviet Union 10 times over. But the Soviet Union today also has formidable nuclear striking power. The United States therefore has no first strike capability, if our first strike cannot take out all the pinpoint targets presented by the Soviet panoply of nuclear power. We have first of all to destroy this power before it gets off the ground. If we cannot do this, our first strike will merely trigger the Soviet counter-strike capability. If we are thus faced with the prospect of national destruction by the enemy's counter-strike, we are effectively deterred. Just this is our present situation, according to Khrushchev.

Furthermore, as Gen. Power admitted, America's nuclear striking power, though vast, is also vulnerable to missile attack. This is because our power, mainly SAC, is concentrated in a few targets, lacks effective warnings. For these reasons, a small number of Soviet missiles — Gen. Power says 300 — will be enough to wipe out virtually all our nuclear power before it can get off the ground. With these missiles in their armory, the Soviets will not need to fear our counter-strike; and our deterrent will then cease to deter.

Grim Prediction
This was of course the exact situation that Gen. Power grimly described. It could be, he implied, the true American situation before very long. His description was so grim for two reasons: his frank admission of our deterrent's extreme vulnerability; and his startlingly low estimate of the Soviets would need to destroy our deterrent. There is only one way to reconcile Gen. Power's statement of the facts with the interpretation of the facts offered to congress by Sec. Gates and Gen. Twining. Gen. Power obviously suspects the Soviets may soon have the smaller number of operational missiles required to destroy the Soviets under deterrence. But Sec. Gates and Gen. Twining are convinced, as they have testified, that it is absolutely impossible for the Soviets to have this number of missiles within the period of our deterrent's vulnerability.

Gen. Twining and Sec. Gates have derived this comforting conviction, as they have also testified, from national intelligence estimates.

Thus two questions immediately present themselves. Are the national intelligence estimates correct, or is it permissible to gamble the whole national future on mere estimates? These questions will be examined in the next article of this series.

SAC Chieftain Paints Alarming Arms Picture

Powers' Views Challenge Complacency; 300 Red Missiles Could Destroy Ours

BY JOSEPH ALSOP
Washington — A disturbing conflict of the highest official opinion, on the sole problem which involves the survival of the United States, was revealed unobtrusively last week.

The problem of the missile gap was painted in the rosiest, most reassuring colors in congressional testimony by able new Sec. of Defense Thomas Gates, and Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff Gen. Nathan Twining. Gen. Twining even suggested it was downright unpatriotic to regard the missile gap as constituting a problem.

Almost simultaneously, the same problem was painted in the most somber and alarming colors by Strategic Air Commander Gen. Thomas

Power. Virtually no attention was given to the extraordinary speech, before the New York Economic club, by the man who has more responsibility than anyone else for bridging the missile gap. Yet the message of SAC's brilliant leader was as grave as possible, as can be seen from the following excerpts:

U. S. Indefensible
"If (the Soviets) could threaten us effectively from a position of such military superiority that we would feel unable to defend ourselves, our capability to resist... would be greatly reduced, if not nullified. (Such) military superiority would be achieved through accumulation of (enough) ballistic missiles to destroy our retaliatory forces before they could be launched. Surprisingly, this would not take very many missiles under present conditions. The total number of installations and facilities from which we can launch nuclear-armed aircraft or missiles at this moment is only about 100. All of these facilities present 'soft targets' — that is, they could suffer crippling damage even (from) a near miss.

... It would take an average of three missiles, in their current stage of development, to give an aggressor a mathematical probability of 95 per cent that he can destroy one given soft target, from 5,000 miles away. This means that with only some 300 ballistic missiles, the Soviets could virtually wipe out our entire nuclear strike capability within a span of 30 minutes. To further heighten this threat, only about half these missiles would have to be ICBMs. The rest could be the smaller intermediate range ballistic missiles."

These words, so terrible in their implications as will be seen, were in the hands of pentagon censorship for no less than three weeks. During this interminable processing, Gen. Power's speech was extensively pruned and toned down. If Gen. Power's facts could have been attacked, the censors surely would have pruned them too. Hence

NFL Parley Enters Its 6th Day With No Sign of Break

'Solid 7,' 'Fearless 4' Refuse To Budge in Commissioner Vote

BY ART DALEY
Post-Crescent News Service
Miami Beach — The costliest do-nothing annual meeting in the history of the National Football league moved into its sixth day today, with no sign of a break in a ridiculous commissioner deadlock.

Seven ballots were taken Sunday, and the two opposing factions refused to budge, the "solid seven" backing Marshall Leahy, the San Francisco attorney, and the "Fearless Four" sticking with Don Kellest and Austin Gunsell, the present acting commissioner.

Venturi Sloshes Through to $5,350 Victory

Wins Crosby Test By 3 Strokes Over Boros, Jacobs

Pebble Beach, Calif. — After sloshing through a wet but profitable victory in Bing Crosby's golfing show, Ken Venturi set his sights today on even higher stakes.

Venturi

The slender San Francisco can collected $5,350 in the crooner's annual clambake, which ended Sunday in one of the worst storms ever to plague the event. Now the 28-year-old Venturi aims for the $100,000 Desert Classic at Palm Springs with its $12,000 top award two weeks hence.

He is skipping this week's $20,000 San Diego Open, where many of the touring pros go from Pebble Beach.

3-Putts Third Hole
The Crosby windup was probably enjoyed more by the national TV audience (ABC) than by the 8,000 who braved the elements here.

Venturi started in the wind and rain with a 2-stroke edge over Gene Littler of San Diego. The test quickly turned into a wide open finale when

On each ballot, the 12th club, the Bears, abstained from voting so as not to peeve anybody and thus ruin hopes of expansion. But it's an expensive wait for everybody.

The meeting is costing approximately $4,000 a day for team representatives and press and radio — maybe more, in the plush Kenilworth hotel. Close to 60 persons involved are dishing out more than $60 per day for room, food and incidentals during the height of the tourist season.

If it goes a full seven days — Tuesday will be No. 7 — the tab will come to nearly $28,000.

"That's why Dad never wanted to meet in Florida," Bert Bell, Jr., said, referring to the late commissioner.

With nobody like Bell to do some barking and hand slapping, some of the owners are being foolish about extending the convention.

2 Sessions Passed Up
Two good working sessions were passed up — Friday night to attend the opening of Walter Wolfner's new dog track and Saturday night while a couple of owners went to an orchid ball.

Sunday's meeting never opened until 3 p.m. and a strong group didn't want to start today's session until 5 p.m. That was argued bitterly, and today's program was finally set for 1 p.m.

With this waste of money and time, the league is starting to look bad in the eyes of the public. The NFL is re-

John Francek Cops 4 Events In Ice Carnival

Three Entrants are Double Winners in Annual ARD Meet

John Francek captured four first places Sunday to highlight the Appleton Recreation department's annual Ice carnival at Jones park.

Francek, a sophomore at Xavier High school who plays on the Hawks' varsity football and jayvee basketball teams, captured the Junior boys' 220 and 440 yard dashes and the Intermediate boys' 220 and 440.

There were a trio of double winners. Paul Rechner captured the midget boys' 220 and 440, John Mummie the Juvenile boys' 220 and 440 and Mary Beth Nienhaus the Senior girls' 220 and 440. Mummie placed third in the junior 440.

The summary:
Cub Boys 110-1. Dave Brum 2. Darrow Mailman 3. Dick Stock.
Cub Girls 110-1. Penny Otis 2. Christine Harvey 3. Janet Schneider.

Williams Signs Contract; Physical Condition Is Good

Boston — Ted Williams sneaked into Fenway park today, talked privately with Boston Red Sox General Manager "Bucky" Harris, signed a 1960 contract and departed as secretly as he came.

All others at the park professed not to have seen the veteran player whose physical condition was pronounced good Saturday after a lengthy clinical examination.

Terms of the contract, following a Sox custom, were not disclosed.

However, Williams recently told a Miami judge the Sox paid him $60,000 last season when his income from all sources totaled $83,000.

Ishpeming, Mich. — An 8-man ski jumping team — boomed as the youngest and best in U.S. history — will carry this country's colors in the winter Olympic games at Squaw valley next month.

It is led by a pair of sensational 19-year-olds just reaching their peak — Gene Kotlarek, University of Minnesota (Duluth Branch) sophomore, and Bob "Butch" Wedin, fresh out of an Iron Mountain, Mich., high school.

Longest Jump
The daring teen-agers out-leaped the field of America's finest riders in two days of qualifying jumps at Suicide hill over the weekend. Each competitor had nine attempts with his six best leaps used in determining point totals based on form and distance. Kotlarek, a slight 145-

"This is the best team the U.S. ever has had," said Coach Lloyd "Snowball" Steverud of Chetek, Wis. "I think we can make a definite challenge for a gold medal."

Others making the team, their longest jump, and point totals are:
Jon St. Andre, 20, Ishpeming, stationed with the Army in Alaska, 242, 646.9; Ansten Samuelstuen, 30, Boulder, Colo., a transplanted Norwegian who holds the American distance record of 316 feet set at Steamboat Springs, Colo., in 1951, 233, 645.9.

Last Saturday's Results:
Kaukauna 63, New London 52.
Shawano 70, Two Rivers 54.
Neenah 65, Menasha 59.
Clintonville 63, Kimberly 60.

Clintonville — Kimberly High school, Wisconsin's fourth-rated prep basketball team and the unbeaten leader of the Mid-Eastern conference was dealt a stunning defeat by the lowly Clintonville Truckers here Saturday night.

The Truckers, possessors of a 3-8 overall mark and the Mid-Eastern conference's seventh place club, upset the Papermakers, 66-63. It was Kimberly's first loss in eight M-E games this season and second of the campaign against 10 triumphs.

The loss shattered a Papermaker conference winning streak at 23 straight and dropped the losers into a first-place deadlock with Kaukauna. Kaukauna and Kimberly battle for the lead Friday night.

Led Most of Way
Clintonville led all the way until the mid-point of the final quarter when the Papermakers finally caught up. It was nip-and-tuck the rest of the way.

Leon Westphal counted 18 points to lead the victors, and he scored four of Clintonville's last six points. The senior all-around athlete turned in an outstanding rebounding job along with Jim Sutliff and Ken Beggs. Sutliff, who contributed 15 points, and Westphal blocked a number of Papermaker shots.

Beggs helped out with nine points. Jim Petcka and Dick Bennett handled the ball brilliantly against the Kimberly press and Bennett scored 14 points.

Darrell Jansen went down fighting with 24 points for the losers, 12 in a great final-quarter effort. Don Hearden counted 14 before fouling out with two minutes left, and Dave Minten had 11.

61-60 Lead
A Jansen field goal gave Kimberly a 61-60 advantage, but Westphal's short jumper made it 62-61 Clintonville. Jansen

Buckeyes Triumph in First Game Away From Home

BIG TEN CONFERENCE
Ohio State	4	Northwestern	2
Iowa	4	Purdue	2
Illinois	4	Michigan	2
Mich. State	2	Wisconsin	0
Minnesota	2

By The Associated Press
The Big Ten basketball pattern is set. Ohio State is well out in front and the rest of the league has to see about trying to catch up.
Ranked fifth nationally, Ohio State scored its fourth conference victory without defeat by dumping Purdue, 85-71 Saturday.

It was the first conference game the Buckeyes have played away from home, and it made little difference.
Sophomores Terry Dischinger of Purdue and Jerry Lucas of Ohio State provided the only duel in the game. Dischinger led all scorers with 32 points while playing the entire game.

Last 9 Seconds

Lucas, who outrebounded Dischinger, 13-10, sat out 81 minutes of game, topped Ohio State with 27 points.
Two closest rivals—Iowa and Minnesota—failed to win.
Iowa dropped a 90-80 decision at Michigan State and Minnesota was edged at Northwestern, 62-61, on Ralph Wells' free throw in the last nine seconds.

Only one conference game is scheduled tonight with Minnesota at Iowa in what appears to be a battle for survival.

Big Ten activity will pick up Saturday with Michigan State at Ohio State in a regionally televised matinee, Michigan at Purdue and Wisconsin at Minnesota.

Clintonville JVs Triumph Over Kimberly

Clintonville — The Clintonville high school junior varsity defeated Kimberly, 52-45, here Saturday night for its eleventh straight win, eight in the Mid-Eastern conference JV loop.
George Greeley counted 16 points and Doug Huebner 12 for the victors. Rick Polman tallied 14 for Kimberly and Tom Roovers 12.
Clintonville was ahead all the way, leading 26-23 at the half and 39-36 after three stanzas. Kimberly is now 5-3 in the conference, and 8-4 overall.

sen poured in a couple of free throws to give the lead back to Kimberly, 62-62.

Westphal was fouled in the act of shooting and, with a minute left, tallied both foul shots for 64-63. The Jerry Grunski-coached Truckers got the ball and stalled in mid-court. With eight seconds left Minten fouled Dick Bennett and Bennett coolly converted twice to provide the victory margin.

Clintonville shot 44 per cent from the floor. Both teams made 23 field goals but the most put in three more foul shots (20 for 32). Kimberly was 17-for-25 from the free throw line.

First Basket

Clintonville scored the game's first basket and went ahead, 10-5 as Kimberly used a 1-3-1 zone. The Truckers moved to 14-7 when Kimberly came out of the zone. Clintonville was on top, 18-17, at the end of the first stanza.

Clintonville continued to hold down the Kimberly fast break and lead, 37-30, at the half. Kimberly fell behind by as much as 11 points in the third stanza and never was closer than five in the period. Clintonville was on top, 52-47, at the end of the quarter.

Kimberly pressed for the last 12 minutes. Clintonville used a combination zone and man-for-man all the way. Clintonville—66, Kimberly—45.

Fan Hits Ranger With Hockey Stick to Climax Wild Game

A radio interview, gave the matter the full treatment.
The windup attraction started as the New York Rangers players filed toward the dressing room after the game. Some fans threw small objects at the players and words were exchanged.
Henry stumbled and dropped his stick. A fan, Eric H. Steiner, a 37-year-old Detroit salesman, picked up the stick and gave Henry a good thumping under the right eye. That triggered a wild chase.
Henry, skates and all—lit out after the fan. He caught Steiner in the street outside the stadium and held him for police. A half dozen other players were chasing other fans but officers quickly quelled the uprising.
"I just lost my head," said Steiner.
Henry required four stitches.
In other NHL action Sunday night, Montreal edged Chicago, 3-2, and Boston splurged in the final period to down Toronto, 6-2.

ceiving an exceptionally "bad press" from the writers here.
It was a good thing the weather has been cold here. Club representatives have been forced to stay indoors.
One scribe compared the meet to the Ringling Bros. circus, which opened Sunday.
The league, which started meeting Wednesday morning, has done little in five days except take 21 ballots, change a couple of player-waiver rules, change some minor amendments, put the hall of fame idea in the hands of the commissioner, and call for more details on an Orange bowl game between the divisions' runner-up teams as a benefit for the players' pension.

All Week?

The Packers were down to one representative today — President Dominic Olejniczak. The club's counsel, Fred Trowbridge, left Sunday due to the press of his own business. General Manager-Coach Vince Lombardi went to New York today to receive an award from Fordham university Tuesday. He may return here Wednesday to relieve Olejniczak.

Before Sunday's session, it was figured the parley might halt Wednesday or Thursday. After yesterday's seven ballots, the feeling was that it could last all week. After the election, the matter of expansion will be brought forth.

Expansion undoubtedly will bring out long and serious discussion, but the ballot can not possibly deadlock. It must be unanimous unless the by-laws are changed to make it a 10/12ths vote.

Representatives of Dallas, Minneapolis, St. Louis and Miami—including newspapermen from those cities, are waiting patiently for expansion talk to start. They're not very hopeful.

Same Pattern

Sunday's voting followed the same pattern as the previous 14 ballots — backing Leahy were San Francisco, Los Angeles, Green Bay, Detroit, the Cardinals, Cleveland and New York. Behind Kellett or Gursel are Philadelphia, Baltimore, Pittsburgh and Washington.
The larger group has been considered the new and away-from-the-past faction while the foursome more or less represents the departed Mr. Bell.

Both sides are just plain stubborn. One compromising proposal would have put somebody, preferably Gursel, in on a year's trial basis but that idea hasn't even been "nominated" yet.
"So far, we've offered six candidates for consideration; they haven't put anyone but Marshall Leahy," commented President Frank McNamee of the Philadelphia Eagles, a member of the Eastern bloc that has steadfastly prevented Leahy's election.

Waupaca's Ed Hart Wins Clintonville Bonspiel Title

Clintonville — The Ed Hart rink, Waupaca, won the championship of the Clintonville Curling club's invitational bonspiel over the weekend.

Coy Deming, Clintonville, won the second-event title; while Jack Colyar, Clintonville, took the honors in the third event.

First and second place winners in the 16-rink 'spiel were presented with shirts, while third and fourth place winners received gloves. In addition, they were given trophies and pins. The Hart rink was presented with the traveling trophy.

The orders of finish in the first event was: Hart; Switzenberg, Wausau; Fitzgerald, Milwaukee, and Dushek, Waupaca.

Second event: Deming; Whetter, Wauwatosa; Hughes, Wauwatosa, and Sanford, Clintonville.

Third event: Colyar; Brehl; Medford; Dan Steinberg, Appleton, and Osting, Green Bay.

A banquet was held Saturday evening at the Hotel Marston.

I plan to name our official four representatives the night before Olympic competition starts Feb. 18."

3rd Is Best

The best a U. S. jumper ever has done in the Olympic was third place by Anders Haugen of Minneapolis when the Olympic winter games first started in 1924 at Chamonix, France.

In modern history, Uncle Sam's best was fifth place by Gordon Wren at St. Moritz in 1948.

"With any sort of luck the U. S. can take a gold medal this time," said Dave Bradley of Hanover, N. H., the team manager. "Kotlarek is considered by skiing authorities in Europe to be one of the world's 10 best jumpers."

"If he is at his best, and luck is on his side as it must be on whomever wins, Gene can beat out the Scandinavians, Germans and Russians at Squaw valley. They only have two chances on their big day in the Olympic — no warmups, no trying to feel out the hill. Two jumps are it."

Leaves Hospital for 1st Time

Seeing Game Proves Fine Tonic for Stokes

Cincinnati —(AP)—Maurice Stokes knew it wouldn't be easy, but after his doctors okayed it, almost nothing could have kept him from that pro basketball game. There aren't many of his old Cincinnati Royals teammates left. And, his close friend and guardian, Jack Twyman, had a bad afternoon Sunday as Philadelphia defeated Cincinnati, 104-95.

But Maurice Stokes, once a tall, quick, husky star and best rebounder in the National Basketball association, savored each minute of this game with huge delight. This was the first time he has left Christ hospital since his paralyzing brain illness hit nearly two years ago.

Stop at Wheelchair

His doctors thought the game would be good for him. It was one of the first things he asked for when he first could make himself understood again.

Old teammates and friends, players and officials stopped at his wheelchair at Cincinnati garden to greet him. He flashed a big acknowledging smile.

A new star, Philadelphia's Wilt Chamberlain, greeted him before the game, then went out and set a new Garden record of 37 rebounds.

Stokes watched the game intently. The brain inflammation that hit him in March, 1958, left him with no immediate muscle control or coordination, but his mind is as keen as ever.

His twin sister, Clarice and his girl friend, Vivian Swain, both of Pittsburgh, sat next to him and at times whispered to him. His physical therapist sat close by.

Tremendous Boost

Twyman, occupied with play during the game, said later, "It's given him a tremendous boost moralewise."

"Getting out of the hospital was the important thing. It was a very important part of his therapy and it was completely successful."

"He was a little tired afterward, but to make the day complete, the ambulance stopped at a drive-in on the way to the hospital."

"When I came in after the game they were all eating hamburgers in the hospital room."

Stokes, unable to move or talk for months, now can eat, take a few steps in a body brace and speak slightly.

"We still talk in charades," Twyman said. "He can put phrases together, and on hard words I begin calling out letters and he spells the word by nodding at the right one."

Evidence Shows Reds Behind Anti-Semitism

West German Report Says Plot Hatched In Soviet Zone

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—The communists have put over a gigantic hoax. They have almost persuaded a gullible world to believe that the west German people are responsible for the outbreaks of anti-semitism in recent weeks. Actually, proof now has been obtained that the whole thing is a communist plot.

The Soviet government maintains an active apparatus of agents in all countries, including the United States. The same technique employed in West Germany was used throughout the world. It is one of the boldest pieces of propaganda that the communists have ever tried.

They have been assisted by the persons who pooh-pooh all communist espionage and artificial provocations. Yet no such coordinated activity as the world has been witnessing could possibly be just the work of hoodlums or persons bent on playing pranks. Some individuals doubtless can be found who engaged in it without inspiration, but the facts now coming to light show that the communists, acting through their apparatus in east Germany, started it as a political maneuver to discredit the Adenauer government. A United Press International dispatch from Bonn on Jan. 20 says:

"The West German government announced today that it has proof the communists are behind many recent anti-semitic incidents. An official spokesman said after a full-scale cabinet meeting that the ministers discussed at length the question of communist inspiration of the rash of anti-Jewish activities. He said that the interior ministry, in co-operation with the state governments, will publish a white paper on the subject at some future date.

"Even today," he added, "it can be said that communist actions can be proven in three different areas, or in three different roles. These are: (1) as instigators, 2) as perpetrators, and 3) in making full propaganda use of the incidents to defame the federal republic as a glance at the Soviet zone press shows."

Some of the evidence comes in the form of a confession by Bernhard Schlottmann, 22, treasurer of the neo-Nazi national students' federation, that he was under East German secret orders to stir up neo-Nazi activity in West Berlin.

The West German defense ministry has issued a paper based on reports of its intelligence service. It says that, at a special meeting on Jan. 23 last year, the central committee of the communist party in the Soviet zone laid plans to develop anti-semitic incidents as a means of damaging the reputation of the Bonn government.

The report says east German communist authorities planned the organization of "action commandos" to desecrate Jewish monuments, while the communist underground in West Germany was given orders to co-operate in any activities that could create unrest in the federal republic. Students in an east Berlin university, according to the report, were advised that anti-semitic demonstrations would be staged in West Berlin and they should take part not only in these but in any rally, whether it was for or against the Jews.

Ministry Report
In December, the defense ministry says, an order was issued by the east German authorities that incidents were to be created in due time prior to the "summit" meeting in May.

This would weaken Chancellor Adenauer's influence with the other governments of the free world and bring about the withdrawal of the allies from West Berlin. More evidence can be expected showing how the communists engineered the anti-semitic disturbances for political purposes. It certainly should show the American people

Record Assets Reported by Savings, Loan

Kaukauna Institution Shareholders Told At Annual Meeting

Kaukauna — Record gains in assets, savings and home mortgage volume in 1959 were reported by Leo H. Schmalz, secretary - treasurer of the Kaukauna Savings and Loan, at the annual shareholders meeting.

Assets increased by $1,243,372 or 17.36 per cent during 1959 for an all time high figure of $8,402,516. Increases in savings and investment accounts were reported with share capital showing an increase of $789,972 to $7,361,346. The secretary reported 310 new investors and savers during 1959, a net increase of 254 bringing the total to 2,967.

Mortgage Loans
Mortgage loans reached a new peak of $7,577,360 for a gain of $1,248,707. Net number of mortgages now is 1,126, a gain of 91. Investment in U.S. securities increased $99,750 during the year to $307,012. Investment in the Federal Home Loan Bank increased $12,100 to $124,300.

Gross income reached an all time high of $400,039, a gain of $62,486 over 1958 and net income was $49,411 higher than in 1958, reaching a total of $323,335. Shareholders came in for the highest earnings in the 73 years of operation with $236,759 being paid in dividends, an increase of $25,655 over 1958.

The secretary reported $86,525 added to reserves during the year to bring the total to $567,033. Interest earnings amounted to $380,495, an increase of $56,279. The institution made 59 new home loans during 1959 in the amount of $640,186 and $1,105,147 was loaned for the purchase of 109 homes.

Directors reelected were Harry D. Conkey, A. E. Mayer and Leo H. Schmalz. Officers that in their midst are active communists who do Moscow's bidding.

A few days ago J. Edgar Hoover, head of the FBI, said while the communists in this country aren't large in numbers, they have a hard core of workers who are ready to do almost anything that Moscow commands. It's too bad that so many people in America regard the communist menace as just something the late Sen. Joe McCarthy dreamed up. Moscow has been more effective inside the United States since the Wisconsin Senator's efforts to uncover the communist plots were defeated, though the "achievement" of Klaus Fuchs in stealing the atomic-bomb secrets still ranks as the most successful piece of infiltration of modern times (Copyright, 1960)

Aside From the Obvious Place, Your Letters Tell Charlie Where to Go

BY CHARLES HOUSE

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

When one appeals to that anomalous fellow identified as "the man on the street," one must be prepared for an onslaught of American humor. This I have known well, and I have been prepared for it.

Thus, when I wrote a column to "the man on the street" and asked him for suggestions on where I should go for my next adventure, I was prepared for a possible need to embark for the nether regions. The boss, you see, has said he would send me off on a trip to wherever the greatest number of readers wanted me to go.

Fortunately, only seven readers (to date) have indicated that I should go to Hell, Mich. Sassy Don Smith of Green Bay stated it this way: "Really, now, Charlie. Does anybody have to tell you where you can go?"

Mrs. Marilyn Nelson of Menasha made a fair guess when she wrote:

"Half of your mail today will probably say, 'Charlie—go to %$+!'"

going to walk it—then swim it. Much easier!"

About Bears...

"W. G." of Clintonville wrote this: "I notice you try to get close to the story you are writing, Charlie, so instead of suggesting (as I was going to) that you go to the Kodiak Island and hunt bears, I now suggest that you live with the Kodiak bears and let people hunt YOU. Then you can tell how it feels. 'People will love it.'"

A small treasure came from "W. H. S., 64, of Menasha who says 'I am too young to get a pension and too old to get a job. This is the way I spend my vacations. You can do the same. 'I have been around a lot of vacation paradises, but never found any place as cool as my own cellar. 'Pack up your picnic lunch, sling your camp kit over your shoulder, kiss the family

Fractional Losers Outnumber Gainers On New York Market

New York — The stock market dipped in sluggish trading early this afternoon. The decline was irregular, losses of fractions to a point among key stocks outnumbering gains in about the same range.

The market rose at the opening in a brief continuation of the recovery move of late last week. Then prices turned mixed and gradually assumed a lower trend.

Most steels and motors lost ground. Rails, showing narrow changes, were about unchanged on average.

Selected stocks in various groups showed some strength. The market derived no stimulus from the weekend news. Although prospects continued bright for the economy, uncertainty prevailed in Wall Street over the immediate stock trend.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was

Cold Wave Of Length To Hit State

A cold wave of several days' duration is expected to move into the Fox Cities and spread across the state to night with a low of five degrees below zero.

Forecasters call for even colder weather Tuesday and Wednesday. Light snow that spread across the state late Sunday night dumped one and one half inches on Lake Geneva. The snow became lighter as it moved north. A quarter of an inch was measured in Appleton.

Florida has little prospect of saving its crops with the advent of another cold wave. Three nights of sub-freezing weather left damaged estimated as high as 80 or 90 percent to the tomato, corn, pepper, string bean and pole bean crops. Some oranges were frozen on the trees in low-lying central Florida groves.

down 20 cents to $223.20 with the industrials down 60 cents, the rails unchanged and the utilities up 10 cents.

Corporate bonds were higher.

U. S. government bonds were mostly firm.

Japan's Past and Present Revealed by Italian Author

("Meeting with Japan," by Fosco Maraini. Translated from the Italian by Eric Mosbacher. Viking Press, $10.)

Fosco Maraini first came to Japan in 1938. At that time foreigners of whatever nationality were often arrogantly received. He was surprised to interminable inspections and interrogations, the most minute customs and medical examinations. He was required to list all his close and distant relatives. Had it turned out that he himself had done service in an army or was in some way connected with a political or international organization, he might not have been admitted to the country.

at all Japan, bristling with militarism, was hostile to visitors from the West. But when Maraini returned in 1953, he was welcomed with gracious respect. Returning was a strange and moving experience. On the one hand, the Italian-born Maraini considered Japan his second country. It was the land where his three daughters had been born, where for many years he had lived in peace and had made warm friendships while engaging in ethnological studies or teaching Italian at the University of Kyoto. But Japan was also the country where, from the Italian armistice in September, 1943, until the Japanese surrender in August, 1945, he and his family had been interned for antifascism. So this, too, was a side of Japan that Maraini remembered as he stepped off the plane in 1953. The story of his return is told in "Meeting with Japan," the Book-of-the-Month Club selection for January.

Maraini found a similar paradox among the people. Formerly they had been blindly nationalistic, deluded by the conviction that the Rising Sun could never set. Now they had been forced to accept the bitter humiliation of defeat, the fact that their Emperor-God was only mortal. They had endured the American occupation, and had even, with their chameleonlike adaptability, taken to aping the ways of their conquerors. But in spite of this the qualities he had always most admired — Japanese simplicity, courtesy and dignity — remained. During his previous stay, from 1938 to 1946, Maraini had learned that it is no easy thing to judge the Oriental mind by Western standards. No people in the world are more remote from Europeans or Americans, or more difficult to understand. His book goes a long way toward bridging the gap between the East and the West. "Meeting with Japan" includes more than 150 photographs, many in full color, as well as a number of drawings, charts and maps.
